AA degree equals junior standing, says NSA

By Bob Palakie

The National Student Association (NSA), has taken the stand that students holding associate degrees from accredited junior colleges must be given junior standing at four-year institutions, Chairman Tom Biggs told the Student Senate Tuesday.

This was one of two important pieces of legislation to come from the August meeting of NSA, which was attended by a delegation from College of DuPage.

The second legislative measure placed, for the first time, a junior college representative on the National Supervisory Board, which is an advisory committee to the president.

Biggs indicated that these two measures were significant, because NSA is oriented toward four-year institutions and has not been responsive to junior colleges in the past.

At the NSA meetings, Biggs also learned that DuPage was one to two years ahead of other junior colleges in solving problems and in experimental programs, such as Alpha-One and the Cluster College idea.

In other senate action, an amendment permitting any student enrolled here and maintaining a C average to hold a senate seat was approved by a 6-4 vote. The measure will go to the student body elections Oct. 12-13 for final ratification.

The amendment drops the senate requirement of carrying 12 hours, allowing part-time students to hold senate offices.

Sen. Roger Smith commented, "the part-time student has been treated like the proverbial Negro." Smith also stated, "to limit . . . (the senate) to only those with a full load is an undemocratic procedure."

An amendment to limit the senate to 25 members was discussed and defeated on the second vote, 5-3.

Opening discussion on the amendment, Chairman Biggs stated that the senate could "work together better as a smaller group."

However, Sen. John Hrubec commented, "If we have 45 warm bodies with minds working — I don't see anything wrong with that."

The constitution presently allows one senator for each 200 students. The proposed amendment would have cut that number to 25, a loss of 20 senators.

A third amendment was proposed which would have dropped winter elections. It provided for senators serving full year terms with half elected in the spring and half in the fall.

Winter elections have had the poorest turnout and the measure could increase spring and fall turnouts, said Biggs.

In opposition, Hrubec said that the senate should give as much opportunity as possible to prospective senators. The amendment was defeated 9-2.

In his opening address as chairman, Biggs said he "expects a lot" from this year's senate. "I want to see some good legislation . . . pertinent legislation," said Biggs.

Although three measures were discussed and acted upon, Smith commented, "It (the senate) smells as bad as last year . . . odor of lethargy."

Biggs apologized for the poor attendance.

A total of 11 senators attended the meeting.

Tasha waits for master . . . she's 'Big Dog on Campus'

By Don McCluskey

Life seemed to be passing Tasha by, she was going nowhere fast, making nothing out of herself . . . until she started coming to College of DuPage. Now things are really popping for Tasha . . . she is meeting new friends, learning new games . . . just enjoying herself.

She can be spotted nearly every day sitting patiently in the breezeway between J and K buildings, waiting for her master. You see, Tasha is the Big Dog on Campus . . . the only dog on campus.

Nary a move does the wary-eyed canine make during her long vigil, but when Mrs. Mona Taylor, Lombard, a student, shows herself at J Building entrance, Tasha leaps into action and accompanies her to the car.

Among Tasha's many talents, according to Mrs. Taylor, is elevator training. Tasha picked this up at Cornell University, where Mr. Taylor is a visiting scientist. Riding up and down the elevators at Cornell, Tasha knows exactly what floor to get off at in order to find her master's office. If the elevator operator stops at the wrong floor, Tasha simply gives him a dirty look and refuses to depart.

Tasha also enjoys employing her tail as a tow rope or pulling small children around the lake. She attended obedience school for four years, Mrs. Taylor said, and the training she received there made her an extremely well behaved dog.

Originally the Taylors went to the shelter looking for a cat, but one glimpse of Tasha and their minds were made up. This is the reason Mrs. Taylor calls Tasha a shelly . . . she is actually a half and half collie with long golden brown hair.

Attending classes here meant either bringing Tasha along or leaving her home in a hot apartment all day, explained Mrs. Taylor. Tasha is obviously pleased with her master's decision.

It's about time College of DuPage had some type of mascot; maybe Tasha is the answer.

Vandals smash dozen windows; damage is $800

An unknown vandal or vandals went on a window-breaking, rock-throwing rampage at College of DuPage between 9 and 10 p.m. Sunday. Elmer Rosin, director of security, estimated damage at $800.

According to Rosin, the glass in three exterior and two interior doors on the southwest corner of the K building was smashed. In addition, glass in four exterior doors and two lobby doors of the gym were smashed, as well as a large pane of glass above the gym balcony.

Large rocks were found inside the buildings later, some of which were splattered with green paint. The rocks were placed in a box and taken to security headquarters.

Buy your ticket early and SAVE

If you're planning to attend the concert, you can purchase your advance ticket in the Student Activities office K138 for $1.50. The same ticket at the door will cost $2.50. All non-student tickets in advance are $2.00 and at the door $3.00.

The concert will feature Mason Proffit which recently released an album entitled Wanted Mason Proffit, and the Minimum Daily Requirement, a Coffee House group out of the East coast.

Traffic congestion eases; Butterfield gets lights

By Tim Zarazan

A bit of normalcy returned to College of DuPage Monday when traffic congestion eased because of new overflow parking lots on the east side of Lambert Rd.

Heavy rains last week had delayed the opening of these lots. The state highway department installed traffic lights early in the week at Butterfield and Lambert Rds. They were in service Tuesday afternoon.

The temporary alleviation of parking was eased last week by quick action by student government after a 15-hour meeting of top ASB leaders.

It was decided to use Yorktown Shopping Center as a temporary parking facility and to bus students back and forth. Merchants there agree on the temporary measure.

It was also decided to use the unopened portion of north Lambert Rd. as a student parking facility and shuttle students between there and the interim campus.

Under the direction of John Hrubec, student traffic controllers packed the main lots on campus to capacity and afterwards diverted drivers to one of the temporary parking lots.

Many students, anticipating long delays, left up to one hour early for their first classes. As a result, campus parking facilities were filled by 7:15 each morning last week.

The student body, in general, was quite cooperative. It was astonishing to see students go through hours of delays, detours and busing to attend classes. Absenteeism was quite low under the circumstances.

Students will no longer be able to park along Butterfield Rd. No parking signs were posted along the highway last Friday. Any car parked there will be towed away, probably before the driver can turn off the ignition.

John Paris, vice-president, operations, said more gravel is being spread on the east side of Lambert Rd. This lot along the main lot, will accommodate all but 100 student cars, he said. A heavy downpour, though, could leave us right where we were on Sept. 22.

Faculty Senate praises students for patience

A motion commending the student body for its patience during the traffic problems last week when the college opened was passed unanimously by the Faculty Senate.

The motion submitted by James E. Love read:

"I move that the Faculty Senate go on record to commend Fred Robinson, the Student Government and the whole Student Body for their fatiguing, but continuous, work and efforts to reduce the parking problems and traffic congestion of the last few days. All students seem to have been very patient and helpful in alleviating this most difficult situation."

Dr. Rodney Berg, college president, appeared at the senate meeting last Tuesday to discuss the problems of the proposed reorganization of the college.

Campus corn crop cops out

By Gerry Healey

In addition to all the hassles encountered with traffic and parking in the past week, College of DuPage has also been hit by the corn blight!

The college's corn crop, consisting of two small stalks on the east side of J building, were first noticed back in June by Augie Batis, custodial supervisor at the school.

"I guess it just sprung up from the old farm soil," said Augie.

"The kids asked me not to cut it down, and because I like to keep them happy and it didn't cost anything, I decided to let it grow."

Even though the corn has fallen prey to the dreaded blight, it still stands as a reminder of how far College of DuPage has progressed since its days of farmlife.

As to the future of the corn, Augie suggested that the students might possibly use it as some sort of Halloween decoration in the Campus Center.

Berg streamlines administrative posts

Several administrative changes, effective Sept. 28, have been announced by Dr. Rodney Berg, college president.

The reorganization was necessitated by the resignation of Dr. E. Ray Searby, former vice president - business, and the retirement of Harold Bitting, former vice president - administration. These positions will not be immediately reoccupied.

The three principal administrative officers named by Berg include Dr. William Treloar, who continues as vice president-community relations; Dr. John Anthony, vice president-instruction; and John Paris, vice president-operations. Dr. Anthony was formerly the dean of faculty and Paris was the former dean of students.

As vice president-community relations, Dr. Treloar will be responsible for public information and publications, community services and staff services. Assisting him in those respective fields are Michael Potts, Ray Hanus and Russ George.

Dr. Anthony will be in charge of the director of research, the dean of students, the learning resources center, the dean of faculty, and the director of admissions and student accounting. His assistants under these respective programs will be Dr. Stephen Groszos, Paul Harrington, Ernest LeDuc, Miss Lucile Friedli, James Godshalk, Herb Rinehart and Richard Ducote.

Paris, as vice president-operations, will be responsible for finance, purchasing, campus services, personnel and auxiliary services. Kenneth Kolbet, Ron Lemme, Theodore Zuck, John Blatnik, Donald Cowan, Allan Allison and Ernest Gibson will assist Paris in their various programs.

Students hiked to class with a new lease on life with the opening of the new gravel parking lots which made parking a little easier and the walk a little shorter.

Pat Gorak heads Equal Rights Alliance

By Larry Murdock

The voice of the women's liberation is here on campus.

Miss Patricia Gorak, the voice of student activities heard on the Campus Center public address system, is also the official head of the Equal Rights Alliance movement on campus. Better known to most people as "Women's Liberation League", this push toward feminine equality has been the subject of much national discussion.

Miss Gorak's group is affiliated with NOW (National Organization for Women). She said its objective is to bring about a more humanistic or sociological way of life where adults can choose from a variety of life styles.

It is through education and legislation, said Miss Gorak, that the ERA hopes to expose the public to the "sickness of sexism the same way they were exposed or educated to the sickness of racism."

"Legislation plays the biggest role of all," she said. The group urges an equal rights provision of the Illinois state constitution, day care centers, fair public accommodations, and equal labor laws.

She is particularly concerned with some commercials on television, which she said were degrading to women.

She estimated 51 per cent of women approve ERA, which has many male members also.

Interested students are urged to contact Miss Gorak in the student government office.

3 attend D.C. conference

The Second Annual PRESIDENT TO PRESIDENTS Conference convened Friday, Sept. 25, in Washington, D.C. The Associated Student Governments stated as its goal "to provide a genuine format for understanding the problems that plague the nation and her campuses."

With that end in mind, representatives from some 300 colleges and universities across the nation came together. Representing the College of DuPage at the Presidential Conference were Rodney Berg, College President, and Tom Biggs and Mariclar Barrett of the A.S.B. Executive Board.

The conference featured such notable government spokesmen as Melvin Laird, Secretary of Defense; Walter Hickel, Secretary of the Interior; John Mitchell, U.S.

Attorney General; William H. Sullivan, Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian Affairs; and Curtis Tarr, newly appointed Director of Selective Service.

DuPage delegates Biggs and Barrett described the conference as productive in penetrating the superficial symbols of established leadership. Beyond the formal sessions, they stated that the real value of the conference was in the opportunity provided to discuss with other delegates what the speakers said and, more importantly, what they meant. Also of value was the chance to discern Dr. Berg's views on issues which affect the student body.

As a follow-up to the conference, A.S.G. has organized the National Student Congress on National and International Affairs, to be held the first weekend in March.

Community Chorus begins rehearsals

The moving of rehearsals to Building M5 on the interim campus has resulted in a slight increase in the numbers joining the College of DuPage Community Chorus which meets Tuesday nights from 8 to 10.

The repertoire of the chorus this year will consist of Gloria by Poulenc, Christmas carols and anthems, and Carmina Burana by Carl Orff.

Instrumental accompaniments will be supplied by members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Concerts will be held Sunday evening, Dec. 13, and Sunday evening, June 6, in the Campus Center.

Interested adults as well as those just out of high school choirs are invited to join this chorus. Music 150S should be registered for, which carries one quarter hour of credit. No audition is required. The director is Dr. Carl A. Lambert of the Performing Arts Department.

Will 'old Gabe' blow victory charge at Morton?

If you've been disturbed many times at sporting events by the constant blaring of an old wretched trumpet, you can thank Coach Dick Miller and his husky Chaparrals for this deprivation of peace and quiet.

Though we can't blame Coach Miller for some of the, if you will, atrocious musicians who oft times up this trumpet (which we in Student Government have come to call "Old Gabriel"), he and his Chaparrals are responsible for this wretched noise-maker remaining on our campus.

Two years ago, Dr. Joseph Palmieri introduced the idea of a trophy to be presented annually to the winner of the Morton versus College of DuPage football game. It was this idea which first brought Old Gabriel to our campus. So far we haven't had to part with this truly aged brass form.

This Friday, Oct. 2, we will again travel to Berwyn to engage in gridiron warfare with the Morton Bulldogs. Again Old Gabriel will accompany us, and of course when the 3:30 signal sounds it will be up for grabs until the final second of the game 60 minutes later reveals the winner.

Those of us who have come to be closely attached to "Old Gabe" will of course accompany Coach Miller and the Chaparrals on the trip to Berwyn. We would truly appreciate your presence there also.

We will have buses available for you to make this trip with us. Also accompanying us will be a car caravan decorated in the proud green and gold that will surround us. Your car is more than welcome. We will leave the campus at 1:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 2. Come on out to cheer the Chaparrals on to victory and help us keep "Old Gabe."

Coach Miller has assured us that the fellas are ready, so you can expect plenty of excitement to keep your mind off the asinine possibility of losing "Old Gabriel." All right, Coach, the incentive is there. Let's win this one for Gabe.

Student president's open letter to ASB

To the Student Body:

If you noticed the red-eyed, extremely fatigued bodies, including my own, roaming around the campus last week, believe me when I say that we weren't that way because of an all-week bash. We would have preferred getting rest, but a minor crisis (which I'm sure none of you had noticed . . .) dictated our being that way.

After somehow surviving last Tuesday morning, Sept. 22, we, your student government, met all day trying to come up with a rational, feasible proposal that our administrators would finally accept. It was in those meetings that the Yorktown and Lambert Road solutions were arrived at. It was obvious that no longer could we accept promises. It was time for positive action.

Though I was still in favor of calling class off, I presented the busing proposal to the administration. After hours of deliberation our proposal was adopted, and we began putting those solutions into effect.

To do this, many of us toiled straight through the night without sleep to see that the necessary communiques, signs, and personnel were ready to implement our plan. When I say we, make no mistake about it, I'm referring to students only.

Though Wednesday was not heaven, it was certainly a hell of a lot better than Tuesday, and as time went on the situation became more bearable. This would not have been the case had you, the student body, not cooperated in using those satellite lots which we secured for temporary parking. For that, you are truly to be commended.

Also, although we were not supposed to park in the faculty-staff lot, Elmer Rosin is to be commended for using discretion and letting many of the students park there after the masses of faculty and staff had arrived.

Last, but certainly not least, the many students who worked all night long Tuesday should certainly be commended and thanked for the time and effort they invested in temporarily relieving the pressure.

Special thanks to John Hrubec, traffic chairman; Tom Stauch, John Zaruba, T.C. Cramer, John Bierne, Judy Hallmark, Ed Schwartz, Bob Connerth, Mariclare Barrett, Claude Kneuper, Bruce Zorn, Val Foltz, Barb Bullman, Mary Museo, and many, many others — some of whom I don't even know by name but truly thank also. This cooperative effort enforces my belief that Student Government in 1970-71 can and will work unceasingly for the betterment of the College community at large. Right on, Student Government.

Edmonds Curley go over big in center Tuesday

The comedy team of Joey Edmonds and Thom Curley performed to the delight of a near full house in the Campus Center on Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The show was another in the college's attempt to provide entertainment for the students at some time other than on weekend evenings.

The antics of the duo brought laughter and applause from the crowd as their act included skits ranging from the problems encountered by a young man on the first date with a new girlfriend, to the art of finding a parking spot on the campus at the College of DuPage.

Tuesday's performance marked the second time the group has played at College of DuPage. They were here late in the fall of 1969.

The team has also played on the Johnny Carson Tonight Show, at University of Illinois, and Mister Kelly's in Chicago.

Coe college plan eliminates prescribed requirements

Cedar Rapids, Ia.-(I.P.)-The Coe College administration has adopted a new plan of individualized curriculum which will eliminate nearly all prescribed course requirements for graduation.

The new plan is designed to meet the needs of each student, rather than requiring all students to fulfill the same set of general courses in the traditional manner.

Consideration of each student's high school preparation, present interests, tentative plans for the future, and need to explore certain types of study will be taken into account under the new plan.

Four new standards of graduation will be required:

1. Satisfactory completion of either 36 courses OR 33 courses and one term of work-service experience off the campus.

2. Satisfactory completion of a 2-course sequence of Freshman Studies (a reading-discussion seminar exploring a variety of disciplines).

3. Satisfactory completion of 7 to 11 courses which will constitute an area of concentration (which may be either the traditional departmental major or a coherent non-departmental sequence of courses designed by the individual student in consultation with faculty members).

4. An educational plan, to be developed by the student with the aid of competent counseling, which will become part of the student's personal record and may be revised as needed throughout the student's college career.

DuPage drug abuse to be discussed by Lombard doctor

Dr. Richard Albers, Lombard physician, will present his views concerning drug abuse in DuPage county, at a lecture Oct. 7 at 11 a.m. in M4-1, according to Dennis Freeburn, associate director of student activities.

Dr. Albers is currently engaged in creating a drug abuse center in the DuPage area.

The lecture is the first of two scheduled for the month of October. The Associated Students Cultural - Lecture Board is sponsoring the upcoming speaker series.

The 25th Anniversary of the United Nations highlights the series' second session with Alexander Gabriel as guest speaker at 10 a.m. Oct. 25.

Gabriel is chief of the Trans-Radio News Agency, the public information outlet of the UN, and has been one of the few individuals connected with the world organization since its founding. He has also served as a foreign correspondent covering Europe and as a radio commentator.

A preview of scheduled personalities to speak at future dates include: Sherman Scholnick, member of the committee to Clean Up The Courts; the chief of Newsweek's Chicago bureau; Dr. Leonard Kaplan, noted for his discoveries of drug abuse among the U.S. armed forces in southeast Asia; and James Farmer, assistant secretary of Health, education, and welfare.

Coffee Houses slated Oct. 8-9

A Coffee House entitled The Back Door will be held Oct. 8 and 9 at the College featuring the Minimum Daily Requirement.

The Coffee House will take place Oct. 8 at 7:30 p.m. and at 8:30 p.m. On Oct. 9, the show will run from 8 p.m. until midnight. All of the shows will be held in room K-127 and will cost 25 cents per show, payable at the door.

The Minimum Daily Requirement will also play at the concert Oct. 10.

To communicate is the key

By Mike Ring

When man first appeared on the face of the earth, how did he communicate with other men? There was no language, no means of writing or even the know-how to draw simple pictures; yet communication was and still is essential to survival. All he had to rely on was the ability to make noise, to touch and feel and to see.

Now imagine yourself being thrust into this position. What would you do? Several students in Carter Carroll's History of Communications class got the chance to experiment with their classmates' sense of awareness Tuesday night when the clock was turned back to the time when man had to rely on his own ingenuity to make some sort of sense to his fellow man.

"In this class we are going to try and cover every means of communication that man has ever used, starting from the very beginning," explained Carroll. "We will cover everything from puppet shows to painting to modern communications."

Dorothy Black, of Alpha One, started the session along the lines of a sensitivity training session. Everyone was asked to remain at their desks and close their eyes and then try to determine their immediate environment by touching everything around them. Not everyone was anxious from the start, especially some of the older students, and not everyone participated for their own reasons.

In the end, it was not a class in sensitivity training as much as it was an experiment in communication—barely scratching the surface of the new frontier of human resources.

Clubs to sponsor homecoming royalty

Inter-Club Council (ICC) decided Wednesday that each club will be required to submit a king and queen candidate for homecoming week. The candidate does not have to be a club member but independent running will not be allowed as earlier reported.

All clubs are expected to submit the names of its candidates at next week's meeting. In other action it was brought up that tickets for the Mason Proffit concert Oct. 10 will be sold in blocks to clubs at a discount of about $1 a ticket. Individual tickets will be $2 a piece.

Clubs not submitting names of its officers by Oct. 30 will not be considered active.

Masqueraders to meet

The Masqueraders, College of DuPage's performing arts club, will hold its first general meeting Friday, Oct. 9 at noon. The room number will be posted at a later date.

All persons interested in any aspect of the performing arts fields (i.e. music, speech, theater arts, etc.) are urged to attend. Business will include the election of officers, planning activities for the year, and discussing constitutional changes.

Talk it over

There has been much comment of late about the parking problem and how it brought about traffic chaos on the opening days of school. Most of these comments have been derogatory, and aimed at either administration or student government. Little if anything has been said about the valiant efforts of many concerned students. If the college would have been without the help of the dozen or so student traffic controllers, even more serious and prolonged delays would have thwarted the flow of traffic.

On the first day of classes, several student government officials under the leadership of Fred Robinson, held a meeting to consider any possibility which might help to resolve the dilemma. The rap session released some good ideas, many of which are in current use. They got the ball rolling so that the busing of students to and from Yorktown became a reality; they originated the idea of diagonal parking along north Lambert; and they hashed over a lot of other ideas which were not used but did nonetheless shed light on the problem.

I believe this is the type of impromptu discussion needed on this campus in order that we achieve any form of progress.

—R.A.M.

Take your choice . . .

. . . then decide

There is a great conspiracy taking place in America today. The fashion designers and dress manufacturers are the conspirators, and the unsuspecting victims are you girls. You are being taken for a long, long ride down skirt length lane. You are buying the MIDI when you really want the MINI.

Whether the female factions of this free nation believe it or not, they are being taken in by a select few of money hungry clothing tycoons. These tycoons care nothing about the happiness of their feminine consumers. They are primarily interested in their own happiness, which is brought to life by an abundance of money.

Famous dress designers are always talking about how they express their inner selves through their fashion creations. If this is the case, they should create a bank-book blouse and a greenbacks bikini; then they would be really expressing themselves.

The simplicity of the problem is frightening. Dress designers realize that most women now possess the MINI as part of their everyday wardrobe. Obviously, this means that the designers aren't selling the huge volume of dresses they are accustomed to. If they flood the market with a completely new product (the MIDI), and engage in a nationwide advertising campaign promoting that product to every woman in America, those women are going to buy the new product; why . . . because they want to be in fashion—and they can't find anything else.

The women of this country have in their hands the power to make or break one of the biggest industries ever, the women's clothing industry. I'm not saying they should break it, but they should let the leaders of that industry know what they want. They can do this by not buying the MIDI, and patronizing only those stores which offer a selection of clothing other than the MIDI. After a few non-profit months the designers will get the message, sell MINIS or don't sell!

I am actually pleading with all of you red-blooded girls out there to continue wearing the MINI. There are a number of excellent reasons: 1) they keep male students from dropping out of school; 2) they make classes so much more tolerable; 3) a windy day in the parking lot would be nothing without them; 4) the campus center would be just a campus center without them; 5) guys not studying in the IRC would have nothing to do; 6) the pom poms and cheerleaders would go relatively unnoticed; 7) the male species would be so bored, an epidemic of hardened arteries would sweep the nation. Isn't that enough to make you reconsider and rebel against the evil MIDI?

The Firesign Theater: "Don't Step On That Dwarf and Hand Me the Pliers." This album is strictly for your head no matter what shape it's in when you hear it. There may not be much music but that doesn't mean there isn't anything worth listening to. Make it a point to listen to it and TV, Hollywood, and Southern California will never be the same again.

Dave Mason: "Alone Together." Neil Young: "After the Gold Rush." Here are two albums that are very much alike because the artists are into basically the same things. But when you take all the tunes on both these albums and put them all together you discover something new and original but also nostalgic and flowing. If you are a Neil Young freak and you listen to this album for a while you'll see that this man has been going through some changes. Mason and Young are on the same trip and everything is goin' to be alright.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the A.S.B. Senate, we would like to extend our greetings and best wishes for a prosperous academic year to all freshmen and returning students. We hope you will enjoy being at the College of DuPage and help us "get it all together," through involvement in student government and its activities.

To all those who are considering running and are running for the Senate, I can only give my strongest encouragement. We very much want to see the new faces of interested students. As a matter of fact, the success of the Senate this year depends largely upon freshman involvement.

Interested students who want to participate in the parliamentary process but do not hold office are warmly invited to attend all Senate meetings. If you just want to listen in and "feed your head" or you have something that should be heard by the Senate, please come.

We are sure it will be a great year for everybody, and Student Government will truly represent the voice of the people. Thank you.

administration on its handling of the parking situation. Their decision to stay open when asked to close was a wise one. The temporary solutions the administration came up with were well thought out and seem to have corrected the problems.

I was angered when I read the college paper and saw a letter from the ASB president stating that the administration seemed more interested in money than in the student welfare, and then claimed the school would jeopardize my life and education for financial gains. It appears to me that our student president feels the only way to solve a problem is to spend more money. Then when the foreseen problem materialized on opening day his only solution was to close down. Apparently, he feels if one hundred students can't park and make classes then the thousand who can should also be deprived of an education. Granted closing down is a solution, but it is one that took little thought and I feel he did not have the welfare of the students in mind.

Where there is a will there is a way. The students who walked from Butterfield Road in the rain proved there is a will. If our president has no will, then I feel he does not represent the majority of the students and, therefore, has no business being a student president.

Towards the end of his letter he stated I was being smothered by an oppressive administration. Well, I say to you Fred Robinson, that it is attitudes like yours that are killing this country, and if you continue to act and make decisions such as you have done recently, then you, Fred Robinson, will be remembered as a poor leader and the student body will suffer because of you.

To the Editor:

A number of people have recently expressed an interest in the possibility of forming a cluster under the instructional reorganization. It would emphasize a humanistic-actualization model and would draw heavily from the applied social sciences. The orientation would be toward improved interpersonal and societal relations.

We strongly urge all students, administration, faculty, and staff who are interested to come together at Park farmhouse, 10 a.m., Thursday, Oct. 8, 1970.

Foxcroft irked by college traffic — blame officials

'South Pacific' to be 1st musical

By Bob Palakie

The thousands of cars converging on the College of DuPage every day have aroused the anger of area residents.

Some 200 members of the Foxcroft Homeowners Association met Friday, Sept. 25, with college and area officials to discuss solutions to the college's traffic problems.

Homeowners directed their ire at college officials and not the students trying to attend classes. The homeowners said they felt poor planning by college administrators was at the heart of the problem.

Concerned with the heavy traffic on Lambert Rd., the lack of permanent traffic controls at Lambert and Butterfield Rds. and the unfinished school parking lots, the residents wanted reassurance that plans had been made to avoid the same situation in the future.

Dr. William Treloar, vice-president of community relations and college spokesman, outlined the difficulties the college has had completing the new parking lots and the east access road to the campus. He explained both facilities would have been finished Sept. 1 but heavy rains halted all construction work.

Township officials attending the meeting informed the homeowners Lambert Rd. construction would be finished in two weeks, weather permitting.

John Paris, vice-president of operations, reassured homeowners the parking problems would be under better control this week. Plans for traffic signals to be installed in the very near future were also discussed at the meeting. School and township officials added there was no complete and immediate solution to the Lambert Rd. traffic problem.

— Foxcroft Homeowners, seemingly unhappy with the answers they received, said they felt the heavy traffic on Lambert Rd. was a threat to their children.

Several homeowners suggested the college close until the traffic problem is straightened out and indicated they may try to solve the problem themselves.

With the new grammar school opening in Sept. 1971, west of Lambert Rd., several parents said they thought the road would become a hazard to the children crossing it several times a day.

College officials explained a traffic study is now in progress and under consideration is the possibility of public transportation, satellite parking and more access roads to the campus.

Dr. Treloar told the residents the college was more than willing to work with a committee representing Foxcroft residents to solve the problems. Foxcroft Homeowners were expected to meet again tonight.

Advisory council meets

By Tish Sullivan

Beginning Oct. 21 in Room K-163, the Advisory Council will meet the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

Dr. Rodney Berg, college president, and representatives of the faculty, classified, administration and students Monday discussed these future meetings in regard to purpose, membership, agenda preparation and audience participation.

There was some discussion whether the persons on the council were sufficiently representative. Opinions split as to whether these persons would take the responsibility of speaking for all representatives of each respective group.

Unanimous agreement was reached that the Advisory Council to the President should exist as an ad hoc operation. This would enable the group to disband if unnecessary.

Dr. Berg would be responsible for the agenda. Other representatives, however, would be able to make suggestions. Audience participation will be limited to those who submit a written request before the meeting. Agendas will be circulated on the Monday preceding the Wednesday meetings.

The problem of setting up a quarterly assembly of the faculty was mentioned but not resolved. Members of both faculty and students had to leave for classes.

Future meetings are open to the college community.

What does the council propose to do? Consider no trivia, but merely those problems of communication which vitally affect both students and faculty and administration — (you guessed it!) PARKING.

IRC to automate checkout system

By Dan Egan

A new system is being installed that will completely automate the entire checkout system of IRC facilities. It is called the Automated Circulation System (ACS).

It will use computers and computer programming to save time and make it easier for persons using IRC facilities.

The old type card will be replaced by a blue computer card. An IRC user will take the card along with the material he wants to borrow to the desk.

The card will be inserted along with the person's ID card and a three-piece card. The ACS then stamps the date on the white copy of the card, which is given to the borrower.

The second card is held for future reference as to where the book is; the other card goes to a computer at the end of the day where a list is compiled showing what materials are out, their due date and who has the book (by number only).

This list will then be circulated around the IRC for reference by people looking for material. There will also be space on the master copy at the desk for persons to reserve special material if they desire to wait for its return.

This system has many benefits, explained Barbara Dahrman and Roy Marks of IRC. There will be a better record of the materials at IRC. A tally can be kept as to what additional materials have to be ordered based on the popularity of different materials.

Future uses of this system involve accessible bibliographic information, computer controlled overdue slips and many more, once the system is in full operation.

Romeros to open suburban concerts season Oct. 11

Celedonio Romero and his sons Celin, Pepe, and Angel, playing individually and as a quartet, perform a repertory which ranges from baroque to modern and includes the flamenco tradition. They gave a very well-received concert for the Association in 1966.

The association is a non-profit volunteer organization, dedicated to bringing a balanced program of live performances of the highest caliber to the community. Admission is by membership only.

Besides the Romeros, the season will feature The World of Gilbert and Sullivan, Nov. 1; The Chicago Symphony Woodwind Quintet, Feb. 21; and Eugene Istomin, April 4. All concerts are Sunday evenings at 7:30 in the auditorium at Glenbard East High School.

Play tryouts slated Oct. 5, 6, 8

The Department of Performing Arts extends an invitation to all students to try-out for the fall drama production, Pantaglieze by Michel De Ghelderode.

The play is under the direction of B.F. Johnston and will be produced in the Campus Center Nov. 20-21. Tryouts are open to all students at College of DuPage. Dates and times for try-outs are:

Monday, Oct. 5, 7 to 9 p.m., M4-1.

Tuesday, Oct. 6, 7 to 9 p.m., M4-1.

Thursday, Oct. 8, 7 to 9 p.m., M4-1.

Pantaglieze is the story of the title character who gets involved in a revolution. Pantaglieze is a simple and charming man who might be "Everyman" looking and hoping for a destiny. Poor Pantaglieze, however, is so naive that he becomes a major force and victim of the revolution and yet knows nothing of the forces that propel him.

Chaparrals edged by Thornton, 6-0.

By Pete Douglas

In the Chaparral's home opener at North Central College stadium, the defense looked good but the offense sputtered as DuPage came out on the short end of a 6-0 decision to Thornton. The Chaps looked good most of the game but several costly mistakes led to the disappointment of the small parents' day crowd.

DuPage dominated the first half of play, as the Thornton Warriors were held to zero yards rushing in 15 attempts and 43 yards through the air on five out of nine passing attempts. C of D had one excellent opportunity to score when they tackled the Thornton punter on his own two-yard line, but after two unsuccessful attempts to crack the Warrior line, they fumbled it right back to Thornton.

Shortly after that, a pass interference call against DuPage set up the Warriors on the Chaparral three, and from there, Ray Powell fumbled it right back to Thornton.

Even after that, however, there still seemed hope for DuPage as the conversion attempt by John Roberts went wide to the left, leaving C of D behind by only 6-0.

Although the defense stayed tough through the second half, the offense never jelled and those six points remained the only score for either team the whole game.

Mistakes were the key to the DuPage defeat as they were penalized 76 yards and lost two fumbles in potential game breaking situations.

Leading ground gainer in the game was Ray Powell of Thornton, who racked up 58 yards on 19 carries, while his closest competition for the honor came from team-mate Dennis Togers with seven carries for 35 yards. Between them they accounted for 93 of the team's 98 yards on the ground. Frank Giunti was the top rusher for DuPage with 28 yards in eight carries.

In the aerial department Chaparral Herb Heiney outdistanced his Thornton counterpart by hitting on five out of ten for 90 yards while Warrior Terry Wallerich played the short game and connected for a better percentage with eight out of 15, but produced only 69 yards.

This loss makes DuPage 0-1 in the N4C conference of which they were the pre-season co-favorites with Rock Valley. On the season, their record stands at 0-2.

The Chaparrals meet Morton Friday in their next game, and Coach Miller thinks it will be a tough game. He said, "From our scouting reports, they look a lot like Thornton."

Our next home game isn't until Saturday, Oct. 24, when DuPage hosts Rock Valley on Homecoming Day.

Assistant Coach Al Kaltfen shouts orders to line as Head Coach Dick Miller looks over team.

Miller still optimistic

By Larry Murdock

In view of the Chaparrals 6-0 loss to Thornton, those of us who would normally second guess a football team should take a closer look.

The man behind the scenes is Coach Richard R. Miller who has been here ever since its birth four years ago when things were more confusing than now and a team had to be mustered quickly. As an outstanding student at the University of Illinois, Miller also excelled in athletics, lettering three times and receiving high recognition as he was awarded the George Huff award for academic and athletic achievement.

Miller began his coaching career at Galua High School in Galua, Ill. After a short stay at Hinsdale Central, he went to West Leyden High in Northlake. These years of experience included coaching, wrestling, track, basketball, and baseball.

"I have had many excellent teams and great memories too," he said.

But when Miller came to the C of D, the job was to build a team from scratch. After four years he finds himself with a team composed of 10 sophomores and 37 freshmen. "Last week's game against Thornton showed the team is starting to jell," he went on.

"Our defense was especially good in the second half. The offense executed many fine plays, but it seemed as though Thornton was getting all the breaks. A better offensive attack is being worked on this week and a new quarterback, Herb Heiney, who started the Thornton game, will work on passing. I was very pleased with his performance Saturday."

Coach Miller's outlook is one of promise. "Every game will be tough considering the teams which have already been scouted," he says, "But we are still looking forward to a rewarding season."

Football is a game of seconds and inches. Anything can happen and a team can use a lot of support from the fans. Remember the Chicago Bears of '65 who lost their first three games and came back with eight straight.

C.C. romps in first two meets

DuPage opened its cross country season last Friday by sweeping past Thornton, 15 to 50. The harriers finished with a man in every one of the top nine positions.

The best times were turned in by Craig Rouse, 22:35 and Larry Burton, 22:36. Lake County was also scheduled to run in the meet but had to cancel out and take a forfeit.

The team continued its winning ways Tuesday when they blasted Harper and Waubonsee. DuPage finished with 23, while second place Harper could do no better than 55, just enough to beat out Waubonsee at 57.

Jim McNider of Harper turned in the low time with a 21:45. In second place was Craig Burton of C. of D. with a 22:00, and third went to Chaparral Crail Cardelle at 22:15.

DuPage finished with three others in the top ten. Bob Lennon, Gary Shire, and Scott Deyo, came in 5, 6, and 7 respectively.

Their next meet is with Vincennes this Saturday, followed by the Beloit Invitational on Tuesday.

Golfers lose two meets; win one by forfeit

The Chaparral golf team to date has finished with a third in a four way meet, lost to Morton, and won against Thornton.

In their opening meet C. of D. came in with a score of 328, finishing behind Lake County, winners with a 318, and Triton, with a 326. The lone team behind DuPage in the meet was McHenry at 383.

The medalist in the meet was Wes Dunski of Lake County, who carded a 76 on a rain soaked course. Low score for C. of D. was Bill Leonard at 81, with Carl Sonnleitner and Kevin Kramer, both coming in at 82.

Last Thursday, against Thornton, DuPage was awarded its lone victory of the season when the Warriors produced only three men and were forced to forfeit the match. Despite the forfeit Allan Prokop of Thornton, tied Ken Hutter of DuPage for medalist honors, at 81.

Tuesday DuPage took on Morton and lost the meet by three strokes, 337 to 340. Morton's Terry Vaverick was low man with a 76, while Chaparral Ken Hutter came up with another 81 to place second.

The first meet was non-conference, so DuPage stands at one win and one loss in N4C competition.

Pom Pons cancel

At this Friday's game the Pom Pon squad will not perform during the half. The reason given is that some of the members have to work at that time.

The rest of the squad will be there helping the Cheerleaders.

Pep club forming

The Pep Club is now organizing under the leadership of Kathy Wiemann, captain, and Chris Marx, co-captain.

There are presently 14 members, but they are hoping to expand as large as possible. Any girls interested should contact either Kathy or Chris and they will be issued uniforms as soon as possible.

QB prospect declared ineligible

DuPage's No. 1 QB prospect and starter in the I.S.U. game, Dave Ohrn, was declared ineligible last week because of N4C rules on transfer students.

Ohrn attended Elmhurst for one semester last year before coming to C. of D. He will now have to sit out until baseball begins in the spring quarter.

At Elmhurst he played football and basketball.

PRESS BOX

First off, I believe the Cubs deserve a little mention, but as little as possible. I really thought they were going to take the division. But the "Addison Street Miracles" proved once again that "they don't believe".

Any winning club must have consistency and the confidence that goes along with that attribute. The Cubs were not a confident team and their day to day records show it.

When things started going their way, it built them up in spirit and poise, but it was only put-on because as soon as one grounder took a bad bounce, they fell right back to losing. Any team that plays in streaks like they did this year is not exhibiting enough poise to be a big winner.

It's definitely time for a major shake-down in personnel on this team. The biggest area I can see for improvement is third base, where Santo should be traded. If they could Jim Gilliam and two autographed pictures of Maury Wills, they'd be crazy to turn it down.

When you get down to it, the Cubs blew the whole thing. In last week's prediction I failed to recognize that the team was stuck on automatic choke. Well '69', '70' maybe; "they won't be outdone in '71!" Guess Again.
