Day care kids play as mothers learn

The new C/D Day Care Center was properly christened Monday morning as 10 pre-school age children took over Room K115 and conducted a class called "Having fun while mom's in school".

The center, sponsored by Student Activities, enables parents to continue their education secure in the knowledge that their children are being properly cared for.

ASB President Nick Sebastian explained that the center was directed by C/D students Cindy Fries in the morning and Sharon Hunsburger in the afternoon. Assisting the directors are parents who had to agree, when admitting their children, to donate a certain amount of time. In specific cases, however, when a parent is unable to donate time, they may help out by bringing punch and cookies for the children.

When a child is admitted to the center, the parent must sign his or her name on a sheet of paper and, only when that signature is repeated, will the child be released to the parent, emphasized Sebastian.

Sebastian predicted that the center would probably take care of about 50 children, with a time limit of three hours for any one child's daily stay. The age limits, Sebastian said, are 3 to 6, and parents whose children will be at the Center around noon will have to provide their child's lunch.

Student Activities hopes the Day Care Center will continue to flourish with the donations of toys for the children. Miss Fries stated anyone wishing to donate any of their time to help with the children is welcome to do so.

Sebastian summed up the center by saying it's good and it seems it will justify its own existence.

38 films in 5 days

College of DuPage will present a film festival, "Film Expo '72," to be shown October 4-8. The five-day festival includes 38 feature films and more than 30 short films.

The idea for the series belongs to Allan Carter, an Omega instructor. Its purpose is to encourage educators to incorporate more films of this kind into classroom material.

The cost of the series tickets will be $10.00 (for non-students) and $5.00 (students with I.D. cards). Individual admissions will not be sold.

Any students who are willing to give up two hours of time to help run projectors, carry films and work lights, will receive a free ticket to the entire series. If interested, sign up at the Media Lab, J135, or contact Carter.

Following the films, open sessions will be held to discuss topics such as: the role of the film distributor; the role of the film critic; films in inter-disciplinary courses; the role of the producer; facts and figures on designing a film program; and commentaries on short films and some feature films.

The list of movies and their showing times for the festival follows:

Set special voter registration

To make it easier for area residents to register for the Nov. 7 national election, the Glen Ellyn Jaycees, in cooperation with the DuPage County Clerk's office, will hold a special registration at the Market Plaza shopping center, Glen Ellyn, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 30 and Saturday, Oct. 7.

David Parshall, spokesman for the Jaycees, said deputy registrars from the county clerk's office will be in a trailer in the shopping center parking lot to make registration more convenient for those who find it difficult to come to the county courthouse in Wheaton to register.

The county clerk's office in the courthouse is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. However, the office will remain open Oct. 7 from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

Deadline for registration at the county clerk's office is Oct. 10. Deadline for registration by deputy registrars at other locations is Oct. 9.

The Jaycees have distributed 4,000 postcards in the village informing residents of the Market Plaza registrations. They are negotiating with the village and the DuPage County Civil Defense to have a Civil Defense vehicle equipped with a loudspeaker, drive through other shopping areas in the village on the two Saturdays announcing the non-partisan service.

All citizens who are at least 18 years old and who have resided in their voting district (at their present address) for 30 days prior to the election may register to vote if they have never registered before.

Parshall said the Jaycees are particularly interested in registering youth and new residents of the village who may not be aware of the change in the voting law.

In previous elections citizens were required to reside in their voting district for six months prior to the election.

Residents of DuPage county may also register at any village or city hall.

To encourage students to register, the College of DuPage

Soviet women's place not in home, teacher finds

by Margaret Patterson

In the Soviet Union, all persons are equal, but women are more equal than men.

At least that is the conclusion an American tourist could make if he were to believe everything the Russian people tell him.

Mrs. Adade Wheeler, a College of DuPage history instructor, recently returned from a tour of Russia and Scandinavia, where she wanted to find out first hand about the status of women. She was a member of a tour planned by the Citizens Exchange Corporation of New York, a group that specializes in promoting interchange of ideas among the citizens of different countries.

"You can't find anyone in Russia who will admit that women aren't treated equally," Mrs. Wheeler said. "The women I talked to really believe they are not handicapped in their work because of their sex."

In some ways, Russian women may have it better than the men, if one can believe the protestations of the men.

"They swore that they, too, do the dishes and housework," she said. "My wife doesn't do any of it," one man told me."

Mrs. Wheeler said the women in Russia that she talked to have no conception of what America's women's liberation movement is all about.

"They can't understand why women don't always get equal treatment over here," she said. "They're absolutely sure they're completely free, and they have a righteous attitude about it."

Mrs. Wheeler said her efforts at getting at the truth were hampered by the Russians' fear of giving a negative impression, and by her inability to speak Russian, although she found many Russians who spoke English.

She had a "sobering experience" in a Leningrad food store, when she was suddenly grabbed by two Soviet policemen as a crowd of angry onlookers shouted at her.

Fortunately, an English-speaking university student, a young woman, came to her rescue. The girl commanded everyone to leave — including the police.

The incident occurred when Mrs. Wheeler snapped a photo of women standing in line to buy cheese.

"I suppose they thought it would look like there was a food shortage," she said.

Mrs. Wheeler is still bewildered as to why the police obeyed the young women so promptly. She seemed to command respect, Mrs. Wheeler said.

Women in Russia are all paid equally for equal work, and even receive some compensations the men don't, she found out. Retirement is not compulsory, but women may retire at age 55, while men must wait until they are 60.

Women are prohibited from working underground or in other dangerous jobs, and some may retire at 45 if the job is considered injurious to their health. All receive pensions, regardless of sex.

But there are some prestigious jobs that are not as open to women

Cans to rust in village pile-up

Glen Ellyn has had its troubles this year with flooding, and now it may be flooded again — with tin cans.

The Proler Steel Corporation in Chicago, which has been buying the metal cans collected at the village's recycling center, has informed the village that it will discontinue such purchases.

Village Trustee Betty Clayton read a letter to the village board at its meeting Monday night from D. O. Falligant, general manager of the steel company, informing the board of the company's decision.

Falligant gave no explanation for discontinuing the purchases. However, Mrs. Clayton said she believes the company has been "saturated with cans" since there are now so many recycling centers.

She said the company's decision would affect "every other recycling center in the county."

The village board directed the Environmental Protection Commission to find another company that would buy the metal. Mrs. Clayton said it may be a difficult task, since other can companies in the area will not pay the village for the metal.

In the meantime, the cans will pile up. One trustee jokingly said the village may have to bury them.

Illegal drinking causes coat ban

There will no longer be a coat checking service for the first concert here Friday. Too many students last year brought in liquor bottles and cans and left the Convocation Center in messy disorder.

There will be two people at the door to inspect coats which, if approved, can be brought into the Convocation Center. Or, the coats may be left in one's car.

"All of the students should know," said Miss Lucile Friedli, director of Students Activities, "that consuming alcohol on state property is illegal — no matter what one's age might be!"

Cerasoli resigns

by Robert Schneider

The Faculty Senate at its organizational meeting Tuesday announced the resignation of one of its members, Al Cerasoli, and nominated Charles Ellenbaum to represent it in the Representative Assembly.

Cerasoli said in a letter that extra duties would not permit him to serve.

Sen. Marion Reis said he was asked by some faculty members to inquire about additional parking space for handicapped students and faculty along the west side of M bldg. Ellenbaum noted the matter was discussed last year and apparently cannot be remedied.

Reis then suggested matters concerning the old buildings be set aside and attention focused on the building now under construction in the permanent campus.

Reis and Peter Russo stated that the faculty was falling short of its duties and obligations in not demanding information on construction designs for the interior of the new building.

Reis said two years ago he submitted designs for his classroom through regular channels. He said he later learned there was no provision for such plans.

ASB prexy urges 'school pride'

"We must justify our personal pride before we can justify our school pride!"

In the opinion of Nick Sebastian, president of the Associated Student Body, institutional pride makes for better cohesion of faculty to student, faculty to staff, and student to staff.

Sebastian knows whereof he speaks, having served four years as a U.S. Marine and later working for a time with Western Electric in Lisle. Nick graduated in 1965 from Downers Grove North High School and finding his work at Western Electric not quite as fulfilling as he would want it, decided that what he needed was direction.

Having earned a U.S. Military Scholarship, he turned to education as a means of direction. He decided C/D would be the beginning of the positive learning experience he wanted.

Carrying a load of some 28 hours and working in the student government office for as long as 40 hours a week at times makes Nick quite a busy man.

Added to that schedule, he finds time to work with juvenile probation subjects in DuPage County and also adult probation

Nick Sebastian

Another reflective poster told of how beautiful the world had become because of a child. Some notes were written on a chalkboard by apparently adulating female students and on his desk were two massive paper flowers in a vase. The usual photo equipment and stereo tapes were at hand.

But there was a certain dignity about the whole atmosphere. It is a corner of the world where one can come to feel completely at ease in discussing practically anything worthwhile.

If a student has a problem or question or just a good suggestion, coming in to the Student Government Office and rapping about it would be the greatest thing that a student could do.

"That's why the Student Government is here; that's why I'm here," said Sebastian. "My duties are, first of all, being a liaison between student, staff and faculty. Counseling would be next."

When Sebastian came to College of DuPage, he discovered a "bitch ticket" which was born, you might say, in Psi College. This "bitch ticket" seemed to be the answer to C/D men and women who felt unsure of voicing a particular problem or gripe aloud.

The Student Government urges all students to make use of this gripe ticket to voice their opinions. The tickets can be found at the entrance to the Student Government office.

Hearings to air calendar views

The calendar committee of the Representative Assembly will hold four open hearings during which results of a recent calendar survey will be aired.

The committee is considering proposals which may change future opening dates of the college year and vacation periods between quarters.

All interested persons are invited to the hearings which will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 29, in K163; at 2 p.m. Monday, Oct. 2, in M139; at 1 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 3, in J141 and at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 4, K163, according to Alan Lanning, committee chairman.

subjects in the Joliet Relief Center. Sebastian's chief interest is clearly in the human services. He would sometime like to teach in this field.

His small office has a poster on the wall with the provocative McGovern peace message, "We may not be able to change the past but we can help to shape the future" and a sketch of Robert Kennedy superimposed on a J.F. Kennedy profile.

Seeking a job? Try CLASS

Students looking for jobs should become acquainted with CLASS, the Computerized Learning Aid System for Students. Terminals are in the Guidance Office, K143, and in the LRC.

CLASS has a very good memory. He is tipped off by a very good friend, the Job Opportunity Bulletin.

During the week job offers come into the Student Employment Office and are put on the bulletin board outside K157. At the end of the week they come out in the Job Opportunity Bulletin.

Job ads are usually run one week in the bulletin unless the company requests a repeat. And the jobs are not usually filled right away.

The bulletin, of course, cannot possibly keep repeating the same job offers week after week. Hence, they are stored in CLASS's great memory bank. Check it out yourself.

Error in figures causes $13,000 budget increase

The Board of Trustees has approved a $60,000 budget increase.

Funds for student employment for LRC Distribution Department was increased from $10,971 to $23,971. The error was made in the compilation of figures. The increase was necessary to cover manhour requirements.

The capital outlay in educational fund was increased by $47,000. This money will come from additional Federal Grant Fund of $47,000. Areas receiving monies are fashion design, air conditioning, radiologic technology, and purchase of video cassettes for LRC.

With these revisions tentative budget for College of DuPage operating fund now reflects estimated receipts of $10,170,600 and estimated expenditures of $8,560,000 and redemption of tax anticipation warrants of $1,500,000.

Wells to open lecture series

The Coffee House in N-4 will present its first guest lecturer at 2 p.m. Monday, Oct. 30. It is sponsored by Sigma College.

Wells, who recently returned from the Middle East, will speak on capitalism and if it can survive the world revolution.

Band gets extra uniforms

A bid of $2,632.20 by Fechheimer Bros. Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, was approved by the Board of Trustees for College of DuPage band for 20 additional uniforms and miscellaneous supplies. The band has increased its membership from 70 to 90. Payment will be made from student activity funds.

However, the approval came too late for the band to play at half-time at Wrigley Field for two Bear games in November. The invitation had been extended to the band last year.

Just Classrooms?

College of DuPage is made up of cement, steel, wood, glass, aluminum, dirt (in spring it's called mud), grass, trees, gravel, about four thousand square miles of parking lot, an interim campus, a not quite finished permanent campus and four lagoons (five if you count the oversized puddle between the permanent campus and Lambert Road).

Now think about what you just read. What's missing?

Need help?

All right.

Last year they were all over. Only they really weren't here at all. By not showing up at the polls, they helped defeat two needed referendums. But, when it was nice outside, they laid around on the grass and, during Spring Week, they consumed about 900 pieces of free chicken. They didn't show up at many sports events though. In fact, anytime an event popped up that required them to dig into their pockets and come up with some bread . . . most of them disappeared. But, they sure showed up for those free noontime concerts.

If you're new to DuPage, you might be scratching your head about now and saying — eh? If you're returning, you might be looking for a rock to climb under.

Obviously, what is missing in the beginning description of C/D is students. They are missing because last year most of them had a disease. (That's right — here it comes again). The disease was apathy.

They (the afflicted ones) really didn't care what happened at DuPage, as long as their card games in the Campus Center weren't raided. Participation in many events was greatly lacking — unless they were free and there was absolutely nothing else happening within a 50-mile radius.

EXAMPLE: The dinner-dance, marking the end of Homecoming week, yielded a tremendous turnout of about 270 people — out of around 8,500 students.

EXAMPLE: An ice cream social, marking the beginning of Spring Week, was a colossal flop. At the most there were 50 DuPage students.

EXAMPLE: Six clubs had their charters revoked for lack of activities.

This was more or less the story all last year. Some may contest, however, that the lack of student participation throughout the year was due to foul-ups on the part of the Program Board — movies being canceled and concerts re-scheduled. But, when applications were being taken at the beginning of the year for the 11 positions on the board, only nine people applied (hats off to them). The Program Board wasn't at fault. The students that criticized but let everyone else do the work were at fault.

DuPage is made up of classrooms and buildings and grass and trees. But, it's also made up of one indispensable commodity — people. Without people, C/D wouldn't be here. Without student participation C/D is just another school. — Gene VanSon

The Courier

"I believe in the profession of Journalism.

"I believe that the public journal is a public trust; that all connected with it are, to the full measure of their responsibility, trustees for that public; that acceptance of a lesser service than the public service is betrayal of this trust.

"I believe that clear thinking and clear statement, accuracy, and fairness, are fundamental to good Journalism.

"I believe that a Journalist should write only what he holds in his/her heart to be true.

"I believe that suppression of the news, for any consideration other than the welfare of society, is indefensible."

These words are part of The Journalist's Creed, written by Walter Williams, founder of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri.

The Courier staff, although not yet full-fledged Journalists, will live up to this creed.

The functions of The Courier, as we see it, are seven: 1) To report, as fully as humanly possible, the news; 2) to comment on the news; 3) to entertain its readers through interesting but not necessarily news stories; 4) to help its readers, whenever possible; 5) to publish advertising for College and other outside events or functions; 6) to serve as an outlet for student expression and concern; 7) to serve as an outlet for faculty and administration expression and concern without becoming subservient to their whims or demands.

To fulfill these functions, The Courier needs the help of everyone at CD. If you feel the reporters aren't as objective as they could be, feel free to write to the editor and state your version of what happened, if that be the true and factual one, or even if it presents only your side of the story. These opinions will be headed under Letters to the Editor. The paper however, does reserve the right to edit any letters to the editor, in so doing, to limit the space available to one point of view. Our deadline is Tuesday. It would be appreciated if the copy would be in by noon Monday. Night students may bring theirs in that night.

The Courier is your paper. Any suggestions as to what should be given more/less coverage would be appreciated. Come up to the farmhouse when you have time, and make your views heard.

IT'S A FINE THING TO BE HERE AT C/D... WITH NEW COURSES, INSTRUCTORS, AND PEOPLE. THERE'S MANY THINGS TO EXPERIENCE HERE.

Talking Transfer

By Don Dame

One of my responsibilities as a counselor in Central Services deals with articulation between the College of DuPage and four-year universities and colleges. As a former admissions counselor at a four-year school and my involvement with articulation for our college last year, I am aware of the process of transferring from a community college to a four-year school and the problems that may or may not be a part of that process.

During the year I will be writing a weekly column, Talking Transfer, in The Courier concerning the transfer process and, also, highlighting various transfer schools. Through the column we can discuss the many resources here at the college to assist you as you attempt to decide where you want to transfer.

Via the column we may also explore such topics as: factors that may be involved in the selection of a senior institution; policy changes at four-year schools; transfer of credits; transfer to a school on the semester system; and rumors about transferring. It is my desire that the column enable you to have accurate and up-to-date information concerning the transfer process and senior institutions.

Tattle-Tape: Necessary

A new device has been greeting people coming in, and sometimes scaring the hell out of them going out of the LRC. In case you haven't seen it yet, it's called the "Tattle-tape Security System" and its purpose is to stop people from ripping off books.

It's a shame the Board of Trustees had to resort to this, but over the last five years 6,252 volumes of books have been stolen. This amounts to around $19,200 per year. The whole system including rental fee, installation costs, and sensitizing strips, will only cost $13,000 for the first year. Obviously the system will be worth the cost.

Although the machine has a few bugs in it, as some people who have been caught red-handed with their own books will testify to, I feel the use of the system to save the college and therefore, the taxpayer's money, is worth a few embarrassed faces. Some people may feel the system is a slap at their integrity and, they're right! But, don't feel too bad. If you know you've got integrity, that's all that really matters. Those who will feel bad though, are the ones whose plans to acquire some free books have been spoiled.

Yours Is A Power

By now most C/D students should be really getting into that great American pastime known as "learnin'". The time of indecision is just about gone. You've picked the cluster you want to be in and you got three out of the four classes you wanted. The only decision left is whether or not to stay in that fourth class that you didn't really want, but thought you'd better take anyway. Right?

Wrong.

Unless you're really up on politics, you've quite possibly got a few decisions left. Namely, which are the least idiotic of those ego-trippers, better known as politicians, and should I even bother voting for them on Nov. 7?

Starting next week, for the five remaining weeks before the elections, The Courier will run a series of articles on the candidates and issues which should be beneficial to you in deciding whom to vote for.

However, there is one issue at stake which won't be part of any campaign speech. That is, whether or not the powers that be were justified in passing the 18-year-old vote.

Theoretically, because of educational requirements today, and the communicative power of the mass media, people 18 years and over are mature and knowledgeable enough to understand the issues of, and make a rational choice in, elections.

So, individuals 18-21 have a choice. We can not vote and let those who said, "They're not mature enough to have the vote," sit back and say, "We were right, they're not mature enough to have the vote," or, we can vote and prove that we are capable of working within the system, to bring about change, when given the chance to. Also, by voting, we could show that we're a very strong minority group. Needless to say, this could be very helpful in getting the necessary legislation passed to end the draft, just to cite one instance.

We've got the vote, let's use it. If you haven't registered to vote yet, you can do so in K. Let's establish ourselves as a power to be seriously dealt with, not taken lightly.

Russians say sexes equal

as one might think from listening to the people, Mrs. Wheeler discovered.

For instance, when she attended a concert, she noticed that of the 80 musicians in the orchestra, only 13 were women. Although women are well represented in the local levels of the Communist party, only one woman is a member of the party's top hierarchy.

The army, which is very important in Soviet life, is not open to women, except as nurses and medics. Mrs. Wheeler said the Russian women brushed off the fact by asking her, "What woman would want to be in the army?"

Nevertheless, the women, the majority of whom work, are employed in many areas that are not open to American women, and they do seem to get equal help with the children and housework, Mrs. Wheeler observed.

"I saw as many grandfathers as grandmothers in parks with children," she said. "And I noticed one elegantly dressed army officer pushing a baby carriage. You can't get anyone to admit that a woman has two jobs — one at work and one at home."

She said it is ironic that in a democratic society such as the United States, the U.S. Committee on the Status of Women is appointed by the president, whereas members of the Soviet Committee on Women are elected in the republics.

The Soviet Committee meets annually in Moscow to plan programs and is presently working on the problem of the scarcity of day care centers and kindergartens.

"We in America tend to think that every Russian child is cared for in a state-operated nursery, but it is not so," Mrs. Wheeler said. "There are not enough facilities for all the children of working mothers."

The committee also admits that women working on farms are not able to get as high paying jobs as the men. Originally, both men and women did manual labor in the fields, but when machinery replaced some of the hand work, the men had to fill those jobs, because the women did not have the strength to run the machines.

Now that more automatic equipment is available, however, the committee is working to bring more of it to the farms so that the women can run the machinery, too.

Mrs. Wheeler said that two factors contributed to the change in the attitude toward women in Russia — the 1917 revolution, and the world wars.

"America's revolution was only a breaking away from England," she explained. "We even had the same leaders afterwards."

In Russia, however, the whole structure of government and society changed after the revolution.

"The theories of Marx and Engels on the equality of men and women are part of the basic tenets of communism," she said.

In addition, it was necessary for women to work in Russia because of the great loss of manpower during the wars.

"Even in the United States women were working in all sorts of areas during the war that they aren't in now," Mrs. Wheeler said. "When all the men came back, the women were forced out. There were even books written on what was wrong with women who wanted to work."

In 1897, when Russia's first census was taken, there were 101.1 women to every 100 men in Russia, a proportion similar to that in other countries. But after World War I, the revolution, the killings during the collectivization period, the "big liquidation" and World War II, the change was startling.

The 1959 census indicated that there were 122.1 women to 100 men. In the age group of those 32 years old and older — those draft age and older during World War II — there were 166 women to every 100 men.

Mrs. Wheeler calls herself a feminist rather than a "women's libber". ("Feminism is a historical movement that has been going on probably since man's beginnings. It can be applied to many periods in history, including the suffragette period in the early part of this century.")

She became actively interested in women's problems about two years ago and belongs to a number of women's organizations.

"I should have been interested in women's problems before," she said. "I encountered problems myself in getting jobs in the business world."

"But in the last few years as I've gone to conventions of university women I've really found out about the problems women encounter in fighting to get fellowships and teaching positions — especially if they're young and pretty."

"An employer will hire a man in preference to a woman because he feels it is useless to hire a woman because she will probably get married and quit in a couple of years. It is particularly bad now because many men are unemployed, too."

She noted, however, that she does not think there is any discrimination in hiring at the College of DuPage. Teachers here are paid on the basis of the number of hours they have accumulated.

"I know some men who are paid less than I am because they have fewer hours," she said.

Mrs. Wheeler is presently teaching a course at the College of DuPage called "Women in American Society" (Humanities III). The college also offers two other courses on women, a sociology course on women today and the socialization process, and a literature course on the treatment of women in literature.

But the response among College of DuPage students has "not been terribly strong," Mrs. Wheeler said, whereas women in larger colleges have demanded such courses. Some colleges even have an entire program on women's studies.

She feels women living together in dormitories at large universities have a good opportunity to discuss their common problems and to become interested in doing something about them.

They are Dean of Students Paul Harrington and Secretaries Marie O'Toole and Jane Wykoff in K159; Director of Financial Aids, Herb Rinehart, in K157; Doug Schauer; in the N-4 building; Ernie LeDuc, in the Omega office; and Bill Bill Doster, in J107B.

Herb Rinehart, associate dean of students, said "an awful lot" of students have registered to vote at the college. He said about 2300 registered prior to the referendum held last year, but he has no figures since that time.

Clusters, clubs, and interested parties are urged to choose a candidate for Homecoming Queen. Applications are available in the Office of Student Activities, K138.

As applications are due before Oct. 6, it is important that every candidate pick up an application as soon as possible. Any C/D co-ed, who has not been elected Homecoming Queen at the College of DuPage, is eligible.

Girls may run independently or sponsored by organizations.

Balloting for the five finalists will take place the end of the second week of October, and final balloting will be during Homecoming Week, Oct. 22-28. Dr. Rodney Berg, college president, will crown the Queen at the Homecoming Mixer on Friday, Oct. 27.

First Assembly opens Tuesday

The Representative Assembly will come together for its first open meeting of the academic year Tuesday, Oct. 3, at 3 p.m.

The Assembly covers all aspects of college life and is made up of representatives from the faculty, students, administration, and classified staff. It aims to form communication links between the various parts of the college, recommend policy changes to the president and board of trustees, and to review the present policy of the college.

The Assembly will meet every second Tuesday of the month and already has business on its agenda. Among topics to be discussed is the report of a committee on special fees. This pertains to students using labs and lab equipment. Another issue to be brought up is the proposal to change the school calendar to include a week of vacation between winter and spring quarter.

Newly purchased camping equipment is available to students for the first time this year.

Although limited in quantity, the college has six 17-foot Grumman canoes, with paddles ranging from 4½ to 5½ feet in length and car top carriers and straps. In addition to canoes there are two two-men tents and two butane cap lanterns.

Coach Dick Walters will be in charge of the equipment. He said any student wishing to use the equipment can contact him in his office, N-4, Monday through Friday. A student assistant will help in checking in and out the desired equipment, which will be stored in the garage by the Lambert Farm House. No fees will be charged.

Walters said that more camping equipment would be bought in the future and even mentioned the possibility of students organizing an outdoor club.

A SOUND START $ 219

A good component system is a very sound investment. If you love music and are operating on a limited budget, then this is probably the music system for you! Featured is the SANSUI 210 FM/AM stereo receiver. Packed with features and honest power, this unit has more versatility and reliability than some receivers selling for twice the price. Normally this unit, with its handsome case, sells for $140. Most systems sold for under $300 have inferior speakers. Not this one! Since speakers really make the sound, we include a pair of SCOTT S-17's. Their transparency is immediately noticed when you first hear this system ($110 list for the pair).

To protect the records you buy requires a quality record changer. For this price, this means the BSR 310X. It features a low-mass tone arm, very low rumble, and accurate cueing. We include a base, dust cover, and a professionally mounted SHURE M75 magnetic cartridge ($80 list for the package). Our selling price of $219 represents an honest savings of $40 off our regular separate component selling prices. Or, if you wish to consider the discount off the $330 list price, then it is $111. We include our normal 5-year system warranty (stylus excepted) and liberal exchange privileges.

A LOT FOR $ 389

This music system is a real winner. We invite you to hear this system, and we think you'll agree... it's quite a value.

The heart of the system is the Kenwood KR-4140 FM/AM stereo receiver ($320 list with walnut case). It has even more apparent power than its specified 132 peak watts (66 RMS watts) because of its low distortion. The 4140's FM section is super sensitive and quiet. For speaker systems, we chose the ADC 303AX's for their clarity and faithful bass reproduction. But we're not alone in our choice... the $180 per pair 303AX's have received rave reviews from trade magazines, as well. For the records, we have the quality MIRACORD 620U automatic turntable. We include a base and the EMPIRE 66X magnetic cartridge ($146 list for the package).

Our selling price of $389 represents an honest savings of $67 off our regular separate component selling prices, which is an amazing $257 off the list price of $646. Included is our normal 5-year system warranty (stylus excepted) and liberal exchange privileges.

PIONEER

BEAUTIFUL...$ 825

A beautiful value! We have chosen the best VALUES from four very famous manufacturers. The PIONEER SX727 FM/AM receiver represents the power center of the system with over 160 watts peak power (80 RMS watts). Two major trade magazines have recently proclaimed the 727 an exceptional value for the price of $350. JBL builds quality speakers and the L88-1's are, in our opinion, their best value. Come in and listen... compare them to speakers selling for twice their list price of $396 the pair. DUAL builds quality automatic turntables and the 1218 is the real winner.

Combine the 1218 with a walnut base, hinged dust cover, and the new SHURE M91ED hi-track magnetic cartridge; and you complete a high quality system ($234 list for the package).

Our selling price of $825 represents an honest savings of $60 off our regular separate component selling prices, which is $155 discount off the $980 list price. We include our normal 5-year system warranty (stylus excepted) and liberal exchange privileges.

QUALITY NAME-BRANDS AT THE RIGHT PRICE. Selections of the best components and music systems of over 100 name-brands for all price ranges. # DuPage River makes the going tough

By Gene Van Son

Around 200 years ago, a trapper by the name of DuPage gave his name to a river. Years later somebody decided to name the county after the river. So the river gave its name to the county and the county apparently forgot about the river. What would DuPage say today if he saw the river? Most likely, he'd sit down and cry.

Being the nostalgic type, Don Dossie, Courier sports editor, Ed Wagner, Courier photo editor, and I, self-appointed captain of our group, could not resist borrowing one of the canoes available through Student Activities, and tackling the once mighty DuPage River.

We set off from the farmhouse in two cars at 11 a.m. Saturday, Sept.

16, and headed down to where the DuPage River crosses under Rte. 53, just south of Flowerfield. This was where we planned to end the trip. Parking one car in the schoolyard across Rte. 53, we checked to make sure the canoe was securely tied on the roof of our other car, and then drove to our starting point on 75th street, just west of Rte. 53, near Woodridge.

If it's possible for a river to die I'd say that was what is happening to the DuPage. The first thing we noticed, once down to the bank, was the ugly brown color of the water, perhaps more like soupy clay than water, giving one the impression that walking across the river without sinking more than two or three inches would be possible.

After launching our craft, we paddled to the opposite bank where we had noticed a blue thing (we never did figure out what it was) half submerged in the water. The thing was made of some kind of blue plastic and, judging by the way it was stuck, had been there for a long time.

Paddling up river, against what could have been a fairly strong current a long time ago, we were able to get a sailor's view of the dying DuPage. The water was no more than five feet deep in the middle (measured with our paddles) and perhaps no more than 35 feet across (under the bridge on 75th Street) narrowing down to 20 feet further up river. Both banks were rather steep making a landing at any other place except under the bridge definitely awkward.

Our first hazard was just north of the 75th Street bridge. Here two power lines crossed the river at a height of about four feet. Passing under them we could hear the crackle of electricity. Had we not been alert — and if they were live lines — our trip might have ended right here.

About one-quarter of the mile up river from the bridge, came hazard No. 2. Broken tree limbs, pieces of 2x4's and pieces of 2x8's, from who knows where, dammed the river from one bank to the other. By picking the only possible opening, near the middle of the dam, and by pushing with our paddles, pulling on branches sticking out of the water, and rocking the canoe over submerged limbs, we did manage to get through.

Another quarter of a mile up river, we came upon our second dam. This one was, however, impassable. Undaunted, we paddled over to the east bank to make our first portage. A portage is, quite simply, pulling the canoe out of the water onto dry land and carrying it around whatever is blocking your passage by water. Here is where the steep banks proved to be the enemy.

It took us about 10 minutes to get ourselves and then the canoe out of the water, another five to carry the canoe around the dam, and another 10 minutes to get the canoe into the water and ourselves back into the canoe. On the other side of the dam though, we got a better look at what it was. Broken tree limbs, of course, and rotten pieces of planking made up most of it. However, into this were added a few empty beer cans, an old wooden crate of some kind and a couple of old tires.

Continuing on for another quarter of a mile, we came upon our third and last obstacle. The sight of two trees fallen across the river, creating another impassable dam, and the ever present high banks, beat us. It had taken us about one hour to go three-quarters of a mile and, at that rate, would probably take us until 5 a.m. Sunday morning to complete our trip.

We turned our canoe around and headed back to the 75th street bridge and our waiting car.

It might be nice to finish our trip one day, perhaps when Gov. Ogilvie lives up to the statement his political commercials have been making about how he's cleaned up Illinois' lakes and rivers. After all, the DuPage River may not be much but it did give its name to the county. That should be worth at least the effort to keep it clean.

One of the many pieces of refuse floating down the DuPage River. Canoeists also encountered wooden crates, old tires, and numerous tree limbs and planks, which created impassable dams. — Photo by Ed Wagner.

Name new trustee

The College of DuPage board of trustees Wednesday announced the appointment of Gene Coe O'Connell, Lisle, to fill a vacancy on the board.

The announcement was made after a dinner meeting on campus held to honor retiring board secretary Wesley Johnson.

O'Connell, 43, fills a vacancy created when Harold Burke resigned Aug. 31 for business reasons.

Because Burke's term of office was to have ended next April, O'Connell will run for election then in the junior college district. Trustees are elected for three-year terms.

O'Connell is a partner of Stein Roe and Farnham, Chicago investment counsel firm, and is president and a board member of the Wacker-Adams Data Service corporation, Chicago. He is Lisle township auditor.

Ready for Warpath? Traffic problems considered minor It's back to Jefferson -- College days over

An old-fashioned hay ride, an old-fashioned pie eating contest and good old Chubby Checker will be just three of the attractions during the four days of homecoming festivities Thursday, Oct. 25, through Saturday, Oct. 28. The theme this year will be "Chaparrals on the Warpath."

Also included in the festivities will be a canoe race, a dinner dance, elections of the 1972 Homecoming Queen, and Gary (U.S.) Bonds, who will perform along with Chubby at a Rock Revival Concert. The Chaparrals' opponents this year will be Rock Valley J.C., and the game will be played Saturday at LaGrange Township H.S., at 1:30 p.m. Tickets for both the Rock Revival Concert and the dinner dance can be obtained at the Student Activities Office at a cost of $3 per ticket for the concert and $14 per couple for the dance.

Any co-ed interested in running for Homecoming Queen is invited to stop in at the activities office and pick up a petition.

WATER DAMAGE

Because of the heavy rainfall of Aug. 25, fan rooms in the new Phase I building east of Lambert Road received as much as seven feet of water. Because of a back-up in floor drains in fan rooms, all pumps, motors, fans and electrical equipment in the four fan rooms are being inspected for repair or replacement.

The first week of classes created a number of traffic and parking problems on campus, including a few minor accidents, said Elmer Rosin, chief of campus security.

However, the parking situation at the college should be better this term than in previous years. Four student security traffic officers are on duty in the lots from 6:30 a.m. until 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. On Friday, the officers patrol from 6 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

The officers' main duty is to issue traffic violations and prevent people from breaking into cars. Nine security officers are on duty during the special events, such as games and dances, usually with two officers to each security vehicle.

The student security officer is identified only by a special identification card that is to be presented at any confrontation between an officer and student in violation.

DONATE BOOKS

Twenty cases of books have been donated by the Hitchcock Publishing Company of Wheaton to College of DuPage. Some 90 per cent deal with Data Processing Education.

The last day of college for junior high school students ended Monday, Sept. 25.

As school opened throughout the area last Sept. 6, children entering the new Jefferson Junior High School were faced with a serious problem. Due to construction delays, the school was not ready to open.

Quick action by College of DuPage officials allowed the students to start on time — it was during summer break — and save the Woodridge Elementary School district $68,000.

The school board was faced with the decision of postponing classes until the building was completed and making up the lost school days later in the year, or they could cancel the classes. In either decision the school board was faced with the loss of money. Added days later in the school year meant extra salary for the teachers, estimated at $2500 a day and cancelled classes meant loss of state aid ranging from $10,000 to $15,000.

Roger Liska, a co-provost at C/D and a Woodridge resident, offered an alternative solution. Attending a school board meeting, Liska suggested as classes at C/D did not start until Sept. 25 it was possible that the college could provide the classrooms.

With approval of college officials, the students were given 15 classrooms. For 10 days prior to the opening of C/D the junior high school students were bused to their temporary college classrooms. The academic year of the students was saved.

There was also the added attraction for the students of attending classes in a college atmosphere. College facilities, ranging from visual aids to playing fields, were available.

Worlds editor needs contributors

"Future Today, Future Tomorrow" is the theme chosen by Gary Persico as the new editor for C/D's creative magazine, WORLDS.

Persico says he chose a theme to help create a unity within the magazine, and this particular theme to create an awareness of the future which is closer than most people realize.

The magazine will not follow any formal format as to allow a sense of freedom which will hopefully encourage contributors, according to the new editor. As Persico put it, "It's their magazine."

Anyone may submit any literature, photographs and drawings dealing with the future by either placing it in the mailbox marked WORLDS located in the Campus Center or by handing it to a staff member, he said.

The magazine will come out every quarter with constant changes in staff personnel, he added.

Last spring's issue of WORLDS will be sold the first week of fall quarter for a nominal fee. Printing difficulties prevented spring distribution.

Persico requests all persons interested in WORLDS to contact him at extension 229.

Games Room opens at 8 a.m.

The Games Room begins its second year of operation. According to Ron Leoni, Games Room manager, the first year was a success.

We invited a few friends for dinner and they helped clean up the Genesee River.

With the aid of a few thousand pounds of microorganisms, we're helping to solve the water pollution problem in Rochester. Maybe the solution can help others.

What we did was to combine two processes in a way that gives us one of the most efficient water-purifying systems private industry has ever developed.

One process is called "activated sludge," developed by man to accelerate nature's microorganism adsorption. What this means is that for the majority of wastes man can produce, there is an organism waiting somewhere that will happily assimilate it. And thrive on it.

The breakthrough came when Kodak scientists found a way to combine the activated sludge process with a trickling filter process and optimized the combination.

We tested our system in a pilot plant for five years.

(At Kodak, we were working on environmental improvement long before it made headlines.) And the pilot project worked so well, we built a ten-million-dollar plant that can purify 36-million gallons of water a day.

Governor Rockefeller called this "the biggest voluntary project undertaken by private industry in support of New York State's pure-water program."

Why did we do it? Partly because we're in business to make a profit—and clean water is vital to our business. But in furthering our own needs, we have helped further society's. And our business depends on society.

We hope our efforts to cope with water pollution will inspire others to do the same. And, we'd be happy to share our water-purifying information with them. We all need clean water. So we all have to work together.

Elections Oct. 18

Petitions for students interested in seeking one of the 12 open Student Government positions, will be made available in the Student Government office at 9 a.m. Monday, Oct. 9, according to Nancy Groenewold, ASB B.P.

The petitions, also stated Miss Groenewold, will require 200 names each and will be due back in at the S.G. office by 4 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 12. Positions which can be petitioned for, include ten seats on the Representative Council, which deals with student concerns, Inter-Club Council Chairman, and Comptroller.

Following the four days of petitioning will be five days of campaigning, beginning Friday, Oct. 13, and ending Tuesday, Oct. 17. Before opening their campaigns though, candidates must receive a campaign code from S.G. office. This can be done when the petition is turned in.

The All School Elections will be held Wednesday, Oct. 18.

New Day group seeks singers

What can an Omega Speech teacher do to replace members of already formed singing group?

That is the question Virginia Ray asked herself when almost half of the "New Day Singers", an Omega cluster singing group, graduated from College of DuPage last spring.

Needed as replacements for this group are both male and female singers, acoustical guitar players, and a piano player. Miss Ray is presently setting up auditions for any interested student.

For an appointment call one of these three locations: Miss Ray, C/D Ext. 325, Room J-143B; Pam Lenert at 355-5221; or Omega Cluster, C/D Ext. 260, or 261.

Student Life Advisory Board --

No more 'problems'

"There are no longer problems at this institution, only concerns which need relief," said Paul Harrington, Dean of Students, at the first weekly meeting of the Student Life Advisory Board, Tuesday, Sept. 26.

The concerns facing the board, continued Harrington, are mainly those of establishing the individual goals of the student services offices making up the board. Once this has successfully been accomplished, the board can attempt to inter-relate these goals with those of the college.

Also facing the board is the concern of successfully closing the communications gap that exists between the board and the faculty.

Herb Rinehart, Director of Financial Aids and Student Employment, stated three ideas which should help close the gap and which the board approved. First, the faculty members must be informed of the dates and times the board will meet. Second, a cluster workshop could be formed to promote an exchange of ideas between the board and the faculty, and third, the board members' office hours should be published in the faculty bulletin.

A proposal by school nurse,

Valerie Burke, to set up a blood bank at C/D, was considered by the board and Mrs. Burke was asked to research the idea further. If the blood bank becomes a reality, said Mrs. Burke, C/D would be able to control who gets the blood and, therefore, the students could be covered.

Weigh offer of convent facility

An offer of rental with option to buy Our Lady of Bethlehem Convent in LaGrange Park for a satellite teaching station was submitted Sept. 12 to the college Board of Trustees.

The use of such a satellite would establish added classroom opportunities for the LaGrange area. The price, however, of $4.54 per square foot for 15,000 square feet was beyond budgetary means at this time. Discussion on possible use of such facilities will be continued, the Board decided.

Move to join the Chess club

The C/D Chess Club's organizational meeting, for anyone interested in playing chess, will be held Thursday, Oct. 5, at 7 p.m. in K-127.

A spokesman for the club said beginners as well as advanced students are invited.

Anyone interested but unable to attend should contact Bill Pehrson, through inter-office mail, leaving their name, address and phone number.

NURSING SCHOLARSHIPS

A limited amount of Nursing Scholarship money and a larger sum of Nursing Loan money is still available through the Office of Financial Aid, Student Employment and Placement, K157. Nursing students should make contact immediately if they are interested in applying for this money.

CAN A DRINK THAT HELPED DEFEAT THE JAPANESE SECRET SERVICE IN WORLD WAR II, HELP YOU GET THROUGH COLLEGE?

Answer the ten questions of the Brass Monkey Undercover Scholarship Contest, and win a year's tuition to college.

About a year and a half ago we introduced a drink called the Brass Monkey. It's made from a secret recipe we learned from an old friend of H. E. Rasske, who was purported to be the Brass Monkey himself, an allied secret agent, operating out of Macao during World War II.

The legend of the Brass Monkey was so fascinating, we pieced together and reconstructed as much of it as we could in our advertising. It reads like a B-movie script, complete with spies, counter-spies, smugglers, soldiers-of-fortune, mercenaries, river pirates and mysterious disappearances.

If you've ever tasted the Brass Monkey and are familiar with the three ads that we've been running, you've got a pretty good shot at answering the following ten questions. To make it a little easier, we'll give you the headlines of the ads and where they appear.

Headlines: "The Brass Monkey Returns"
"The Brass Monkey Is Worth Two Aircraft Carriers In The Coral Sea"
"Was The Brass Monkey A Woman?"

Where They Appear:
"Rolling Stone" October 12, October 26 and November 9

Remember, the best answers to these ten questions win a year's free tuition at any college of your choice in the country (provided you're enrolled, of course). Give it a try. You've got nothing to lose, and considering the price of education nowadays, an awful lot to gain.

The Ten Undercover Questions

1. What was the name of the Japanese Secret Service?
2. How did the Brass Monkey Club get its name?
3. What was the name of the street where the Brass Monkey Club was located?
4. If the Brass Monkey was a woman, what two possible names could she have had besides H. E. Rasske?
5. What is the color of the Brass Monkey Cocktail?
6. How did Admiral Kokura die?
7. Where is H. E. Rasske reputed to live now?
8. During World War II, what was reputed to be the principal form of commerce in Macao?
9. What was the name of the quinine dealer?
10. Loyana sang "My Love is a Man of Gold." What do you think the lyrics of this song might have been?

Drama tryouts slated Oct. 3-5

B. F. Johnston of the Drama Department has announced that tryouts for Garson Kanin's hilarious farce "Born Yesterday" will be held Oct. 3, 4, and 5 in the Kappa Lounge, M Bldg., from 7 to 10 p.m.

All students of the college are invited to audition, as well as actors and actresses from the college district.

Born Yesterday tells the story of the education of a street-wise New York girl in the ways of Washington. The ins and outs of Washington lobbyists, and their attempts to win favors in the nation's capital form the major part of the show. It will be presented in the Convocation Center Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and 2.

Focus on Sports

By Don Doxsie

Last season it appeared as though the College of DuPage football squad had finally ended their losing ways and was ready to start a winning tradition.

Through the first four games of last year, the Chaparrals were undefeated and ranked 19th among the nation's junior colleges. Then they ran into the nation's 16th ranked team, Joliet, and lost 14-13. Three more losses to powerful teams evened DuPage's record to 4-4, ruining any chance of an invitation to a post season bowl game.

The Chaparrals recovered to smear hapless Prairie State, 62-8 in the season finale, to set a school scoring record.

The 5-4 record marked the first time a CD football squad had finished with a .500 record.

The squad had looked impressive enough early in the year, and in the final game, for the coaching staff to be optimistic. Many of last season's stars were freshman and would probably be back for another season of competition. Probably.

Quarterback Dean Vaccarino, Running backs Bill Fehrman and Joe Pircon, Defensive end Don Rezac, and Guards Paul Cesaretti and Jim Collins were all standout performers. Only Cesaretti will play for DuPage this season.

Vaccarino passed for 476 yards last year and set a school record by throwing six touchdown passes. Fehrman was the team's second leading rusher with 330 yards in 75 carries. Both players have dropped out because of academic difficulties.

Pircon, who was the third leading rusher in 1971, is recovering from off-season knee surgery. He will sit out this season and try to play at a four-year school next year.

Rezac and Collins are starting as sophomores this season at four-year universities. Collins is playing at the University of Connecticut and Rezac at New Mexico State.

Rezac, who was in on 116 tackles last season had been chosen as a co-captain for this year along with Cesaretti.

Because so many of last season's freshman players will not return, this year's team is loaded with new players. Of the 22 starting spots on the team, 18 will be filled by freshman. Forty-three of the 57 players are frosh. As a result the winning tradition which seemed to have started in 1971 will probably end in 1972.

Meyers hurt, lost for season

Dan Meyers, a quarterback on the College of DuPage football team, injured his knee in practice the week before the Chaparrals opening game against Harper and will be out of action for the entire season.

Meyers, who underwent surgery September 18, had been the leading candidate for the starting quarterback job before his injury. The 6'2", 175-pound sophomore has been in the service the past couple of years after playing at the University of Iowa.

His injury leaves the job to sophomore Joe Hodal and freshman Terry Miller. Miller is new at the position and will not see much action in the early games.

Aquatics Club

The College of DuPage Aquatics Club will hold an organizational meeting October 2, at noon in room K105.

All interested certified divers are invited. For further information contact Al Zamsky in room J113A.

"Chaparrals on the Warpath" will be the theme of this year's homecoming. The festivities will start on Wednesday, October 25 and end on Saturday with the football game. This year's opponent will be Rock Valley.

Harriers slow down

It would appear as though the College of DuPage's dominance of cross country in the N4C has ended.

The Roadrunners opened their season September 20 by losing to conference opponent Wright in a lopsided meet.

DuPage had won the conference and state titles three years running, and won last season's conference meet with a perfect score. Now, however, at least one team in the N4C has reached, and probably surpassed, CD's level of competition.

DuPage's top finisher was freshman Steve Lawrence, who ran in sixth place. He was trailed by Gary Brown, Randy Bement, John Fleckles, and Joe Urban.

Coach Ron Ottoson described the meet as a "disaster." He analyzed his squad's performance, saying, "We weren't ready mentally or physically. Also Wright is fielding a tremendous team this year."

C-D soccer team ties Wheaton, 2-2

The College of DuPage soccer team earned a 2-2 tie with the Wheaton College freshman team in the season's opening game September 20.

DuPage had to come from behind on two second half goals by Pat Ranahan after trailing 1-0 at the half. Ranahan's first goal came on a 25-yard kick which the Wheaton goalie charged but a strong wind carried it over his head and into the goal.

At the start of the fourth quarter, Wheaton surged ahead on a freakish goal from in close but, later in the same period, Ranahan, with an assist from Craig Allen, scored. The game went into overtime, but neither team scored.

Ranahan, last year's leading scorer, was not the game's only star. Sophomore fullback Rod Prochaska and Freshman Steve Lee also played well.

DuPage dominated throughout almost the entire contest. In the first quarter the Chaparrals had 12 shots on goal to Wheaton's four and in the third quarter they kept the visitor's from getting off even a single shot. The final statistics show DuPage's dominance. They outshot Wheaton 29-14.

Gridders Slaughtered Twice

Sports Preview

Now that the fall sports program is almost in full swing we thought we'd give you a brief idea of how our athletic teams will perform in the coming weeks.

FOOTBALL

You don't lose prospects like Joe Pircon, Bill Fehrman, Dean Vaccarino, Jim Collins, and Don Rezac and still win football games. Co-captains, guard Paul Cesaretti and tight end Ron Johnson are the only proven players on a squad of 43 freshman and 14 sophomores.

One consolation is that for the first time, Coach Dick Miller has enough athletes to field separate offensive and defensive units. No one will have to play both ways.

Of the 22 starting positions on the team just five will be manned by sophomores. Cesaretti, Johnson, fullback Vince Long, middle guard Jeff Nelson, and quarterback Dan Meyers are the only second year players.

Among the top freshman are halfback Larry Cunnigan, linebacker Tom Zimmerman, safety Pat Feulner, end Tom Dingle, halfback Ray Severino, split end Henry Kramer, kicker Jack Manis, tackle Doug Wickline, and 270-pound tackle Kurt Sampson.

The Chaparrals have some good raw material but lack of experience could make for a long season.

SOCCKER

Coach Bill Pehrson's soccer team will be small but powerful this year. What they lack in size (their average weight is 150 pounds) the Chaparrals will make up for with speed and aggressiveness.

Six players return from last season's team, which finished with a 6-5-1 record. Most notable among the returnees is Pat Ranahan, last year's leading scorer. Others are Rod Prochaska, Jerry Brennan, Henry Moran, and Gary Gobel.

They will combine with a great crop of freshman, led by Craig Allen and Steve Lee.

The only problem is the schedule, where DuPage plays mostly four-year schools. The Chaparrals will have the advantage of playing nine of their 12 games at home.

CROSS COUNTRY

Coach Ron Ottoson calls this year's Cross Country team his most inexperienced since 1968.

Ottoson's runners have won three consecutive state titles but this year's team will be hard-pressed to make it four.

Returning from the squad which was 15th in the nation last season are team captains John Fleckles, Phil Fivgas, and Joe Urban.

The top freshmen prospects are Steve Lawrence and Gary Brown.

Ottoson feels the team to beat this year will be conference foe Wright Junior College. The Roadrunners will face Wright in the first meet of the year, September 20, so they will find out soon enough what kind of season it will be.

Above, fullback Vince Long searches for a gap in the Harper defense. Below, Tom Zimmerman comes up to help tackle an enemy ballcarrier. Despite efforts such as these, the Chaparrals lost to Harper 27-0 in the season opener.

Golfers win opener

The College of DuPage golf team was victorious in its opening meet of the season September 26.

DuPage's final point total of 310 barely edged out second place Harper with 315 points.

Rick Janaes, from Glenbard East High School shot a two-under-par 70 to run away with the individual honors for DuPage. Janaes was followed by Frank Fenton of Harper, who scored a 75, Jim Portlock of Thornton with a 76, and teammate Kevin Kramer with a 77. Janaes held a three-stroke lead after the first nine holes and increased it considerably on the back nine.

The other DuPage golfers were Don Warekois 83, Mark Schmitt 84, and Jeff Kirk 80.

None of the Chaparral golfers are returnees from last season. Charley Shirk, a star performer last year as a freshman, is not on the team this year. Shirk is still a student at DuPage but according to Coach Herb Salberg, "has lost interest in the sport."

Over the past four years, the golf team has accumulated a record of 113 victories and only 14 defeats. They have won the state title twice and come in second once. Last year the team was 34-1 winning the conference and state titles and earning an invitation to the national tournament in Florida this past spring.

Salberg sees this as a rebuilding year, having had a number of his top players receive scholarships to four-year institutions.

Sign up now for Intramurals

Harper 27, CD 0

When a football team fumbles the ball away six times in one game it's a pretty sure bet they won't win, and, the College of DuPage Chaparrals proved it September 16, by losing to Harper Junior College, 27-0, in the season opener.

Three touchdown passes from Harper's Bob Jorgenson to his tight end Kevin Sullivan were the highlight of a Harper offense, which was not as powerful as the final score indicated.

Were it not for the Chaparral's loose ballhandling, the final score might have been much different. Neither team displayed any great offensive strength, but Harper was constantly in better field position.

With about six minutes remaining in the first quarter, the first of DuPage's costly mistakes occurred. Chaparral quarterback Joe Hodal rolled out to his left looking for a receiver and was jarred loose from the ball, with Harper recovering the fumble at the DuPage 30-yard line. Three plays later, on fourth down, Jorgenson threw down the middle to Sullivan, who galloped untouched in the end zone to complete the 23-yard play. The kick for the extra point sailed wide of the mark but the Hawks led 6-0.

Just before the end of the half, another Hodal fumble gave Harper the football just 19 yards away from another score. A pass from Jorgenson to Robert Kruse advanced the ball to the six-yard line with just 17 seconds remaining. On the next play, Sullivan caught a pass in the end zone for his second touchdown. Tom Rambo kicked the conversion for Harper and the Hawks took a 13-point lead to the locker room at halftime.

In the second half, the game settled into a tough defensive battle which featured two blocked field goals and a blocked punt.

There was no more scoring until with 3:45 remaining in the game, Sullivan scored his third and final touchdown of the evening on a 15-yard pass from Jorgenson.

The tally followed a short 21-yard punt into the wind by DuPage's Bob Wood, to give Harper good field position.

Harper scored for the last time just eight seconds later when Ron Ortwerth intercepted a Hodal pass and sprinted 30 yards down the sideline to score.

The Chaparrals finally moved the football late in the game on the running of Larry Cunnigan and Vince Long. With just seconds left in the game they were at Harper's one-yard line. Hodal tried a quarterback sneak for a touchdown but fumbled for the fifth time in the game.

An overpowering wind from the south was a major factor in the game, particularly on punts. The wind caught one punt by Wood and carried it back to just yards from the line of scrimmage. However, during the second and third quarters with the wind behind him, Wood was punting the ball as much as 50 yards.

Hodal, DuPage's sophomore quarterback, had a difficult night. He fumbled five times and completed just three passes, all to freshman tight end Tom Dingle, for 21 yards.

The Chaparrals only real offense came on the ground. They gained 107 yards rushing, most of it coming from Cunnigan and Long.

One Chaparral player, freshman linebacker Tom Zimmerman, was injured in the game.

Wright 35, CD 0

The College of DuPage football team did several things last Saturday against Wright Junior College that they hadn't done the previous week against Harper. They moved the ball effectively on the ground, they seldom lost the ball on fumbles, and they scored. Just one thing was the same. They lost.

This time the score was 35-9 as an overpowering Wright offense sputtered near the end of the game to keep the score down.

Still the Chaparrals were better. Coach Dick Miller said, "We were 100 percent improved over our first game. Both the offense and the defense played as a team, which was something we didn't do against Harper."

In the third quarter DuPage put together an 87-yard drive to score their first touchdown of the year, with the help of two penalties. Earlier Jack Manis had kicked a 32-yard field goal for the Chaparrals, making the score 7-3 at the time. That was as close as they got.

Vince Long and Larry Cunnigan provided most of the offense for DuPage. Long gained 123 yards in 18 carries and made a 66-yard run to set up Manis' field goal. Cunnigan added 56 yards, most of them coming in the third quarter touchdown drive.

The Chaparral running attack was so effective that it is staggering to think of how powerful the offensive unit might be with a passing attack to support it. Starting quarterback Joe Hodal completed just two of eight passes and was nailed twice for losses. Freshman Terry Miller saw his first action of the season and was caught behind the line three times. DuPage's total passing yardage was minus five.

While DuPage had trouble passing, Wright had no trouble at all, particularly early in the game. During one stretch just before the end of the first half, Wright quarterback Kevin Keag completed nine passes in ten attempts. His final statistics showed he completed 12 of 24 for 138 yards and two touchdowns.

Both of Keag's touchdown passes came in the second period when he first threw a 30-yard score to Gus Kontos and then fired a 45-yard bomb to flanker Wilfred Calvin. Calvin later ran a kickoff back 92 yards for another touchdown.

DuPage's next game will be the home opener against Thornton. The game will be played at 1:30 P.M. Saturday, September 30 at North Central College in Naperville. It will be Parent's Day and the parents of the DuPage players will be honored at halftime.
