Tuition cost may depend on referendum: Maria

By Bob Lapinski

A rise in tuition for all students? That will be the end result if the May 20 referendum does not pass, according to Maria Leclaire, president of student government.

The more students casting their ballots the better the chances are of the referendum passing. Everyone registered is eligible to vote.

Speaking on the recent voting turnout for student officers, Maria stated, "I think we are doing really good in this school compared to everyone around us."

There are 48 junior colleges in Illinois and, according to Maria, "We have the most together student government." This was concluded after a survey she made of all the colleges.

In a survey taken at College of DuPage, 86 per cent of the students feel we need a student government but 73 per cent don't want to be involved, she said.

Maria is a pusher and a hard worker. She will go to any means to prove a point. She was a major influence in the decision to pave the northeast parking lot near A Bldg.

How did she accomplish this? Well, for openers she sent a box of mud from the parking lot to Gov. Dan Walker to get the ball rolling.

"The lot conditions were bad. I had 30 pair of shoes. It wasn't that bad for me," said Maria. "But what about the kids with just one pair of shoes?"

In fact, she walked into the office of John

Paris, vice-president, and dropped a pile of dirty shoes and dresses on his desk. She started a petition and got a few thousand signatures, including Paris'.

Maria, 28, and divorced, said that when she first came back to school she would hitch-hike every day. She has a 6-year-old boy.

Maria said she plans to pursue a career in nursing. She was always sickly as a child and would enjoy helping people, especially the elderly, because, she said, "People forget they're alive after a certain age."

Maria is an active member of the Womens Christian Temperance Union (WCTU) and FISH. She also teaches Sunday School at the First Methodist Church in Westmont.

Maria also has goals to get shuttle bus service to and from the campus, to have faculty evaluation by students, and to seek change in the operations of the bookstore. Details are still sketchy on these issues, she said, but are being worked on now.

Maria feels student government is "a method of protecting our interests. I think we should be there to service the student."

Maria enjoys her role as student president. "I started out green, but I'm learning to deal with people better now," she said.

Asked if she would like to enter into politics as a career she replied, "I don't think I have the stomach for the cruelty involved in politics."

John Paris to resign

John Paris, vice president of College of DuPage, has resigned effective June 12, 1975.

In a memorandum distributed Wednesday, President Rodney Berg made the announcement of Paris' plans, commenting that "an institution is the lengthened shadow of one man. College of DuPage is made up of many individuals each of whom casts a shadow. John has cast a long shadow on the success of College of DuPage. John's grasp of the problems, his warm personality, his subtle wit and his concern for students will leave a void in the administrative structure of the College."

Paris was the first director of admissions and records here and the first dean of students. Later he was elected vice president in charge of operations, and in 1973 his responsibilities were expanded as vice president of the College.

A high school dropout who made no bones about the fact, Paris' life has included a long list of varied occupations, running from time spent in the Marines and the Coast Guard, to construction work, truck driving, and elementary school teaching.

In a Courier interview last year, Paris commented on his commitment to the community college concept.

"People ask me when we are going to become a four-year college and I say 'never, I hope.' Community colleges are for people like me, people who need a second chance. Where would I be today if it weren't for schools like this?"

Paris had suffered a neck injury and while it was known that he was considering this move, his resignation came as a surprise to college officials.

Grass fires cut power

A power failure caused by the downing of two high voltage wires during a storm resulted in two separate grass fires on College of DuPage campus early Monday.

The grass fires, which began southeast of the greenhouse after midnight, sent flames and sparks as high as the N-4 building, according to CD police reports.

Glen Ellyn firemen were powerless to stop the blaze because one of the high voltage wires had fallen on the fire hydrant. At 1:25 a.m. the furnaces in the southwest side of K Bldg. were turned off due to smoke being reported in K103.

Soon after another fire started behind N-4 and Commonwealth Edison was forced to curtail all power to the west side of the campus.

Rain later extinguished the fire and full power was restored to the campus at 7:24 a.m. Tuesday. Edison repairmen attributed the accident to lightning that had struck the crossbar on the pole behind N-4. The wires fell to the ground and started the blaze.

Leclaire sweeps student election

By Charlie Kalili and Dave Heun

Maria A. Leclaire is the new president of the Student Body. Leclaire received 177 votes, while opponent Steve Nolan received 81 in balloting held April 24-25.

The final tallies for all of the Senate positions, as well as that of president and vice-president, showed one thing: the voters, for the most part, didn't bother to vote.

A write-in candidate for vice-president, Jim Patterson, won that spot with only 31 votes. His opponent, Tom Warden, could muster only 10 votes.

Two senators were elected to represent each cluster college, except Alpha, which only has one. Extension college will be represented by Deborah Schneider, who was appointed by Leclaire.

Bruce Peterson is the lone Alpha senator, getting 212 votes. The second Alpha senator will be appointed in the near future.

Representing Delta will be Debbie A. Perina and Jon Gedymin. Kappa senators will be Tom Grosso and Rick Barger. Omega senators will be Dennis L. Kay and Tom Steinke. Representing Psi are Robert Page and Doreen Bozos. Sigma senators will be Diane Pesek and Robert Hess.

The new senators will be attending orientation meetings for about two weeks, according to Leclaire.

"These meetings will familiarize people (the new senators) with the places and people of the college," said Leclaire. "We will probably have these kind of orientation meetings twice a month, along with the regular Student Senate meetings. In

Meador fund

With the successful Tag Day last Friday, the John Meador Benefit Fund jumped to the one-quarter mark of its $10,000 goal.

Thanks to C/D's generous students and faculty, $1,100 was raised during the speech team's benefit day, according to Jack Spratt, coordinator of the event. The Tag Day's $1,100 plus over $1,400 netted through the card marathon, raises the amount in the Meador Benefit Fund to over $2,500.

The sinkhole developed some two or three years after the drainage pipe was installed. 60 sign up for bike club; plan May 4 trip

By John Francis

Some 60 persons have signed up in the first organized CD bicycle club.

Dick Holt, organizer, said the first planned trip April 27 was postponed to May 4 due to rain.

The group will meet at the new Northwestern train station, Front and Western st., Wheaton, at 10 a.m. The destination is the Pratt-Wayne woods, where smooth crushed limestone paths interwind through the forest.

A meeting on May 7 in M139 at 6 p.m. is also planned. Five bicycle repairmen will demonstrate the care and maintenance of bicycles.

Organizers are considering a 100-mile trip on Memorial Day. The group will be active through the summer, too. For further information contact Betty Colona, ext. 339, or leave your name and phone number with her in the LRC.

with the regular Student Senate meetings. In the end we will have 15 very knowledgeable students in office."

Leclaire feels the reason for the annual poor turn out at the polls is that many students are not familiar with the candidates and have very little interest in the student government and the things they try to accomplish.

The issues that did bring out a big vote were the referendum questions, which were voted for on the same days. The first question was: "Would you like to see beer/wine sold on campus during campus events?" Some 244 voted yes, easily outdoing the nays, which tallied 100.

The second question put it a little differently. "Would you like to bring beer/wine with you to campus events?" This was an overwhelming victory for the yes voters. The final tally was 304 yes votes against 42 no votes.

The last question again went to the yes voters. "Are you for or against legalizing marijuana?" There were 207 voters saying yes, and 130 saying no.

"The students felt they knew more about these things, so we got them to vote rather easily," said Leclaire.

The final tallies on the liquor sale and marijuana questions will be sent to the Illinois House, where these issues are under heavy debate at the same.

Medical center hosts Health Fair 'May 2

The University of Illinois at the Medical Center in Chicago invites students interested in health careers to its annual Open House, Health Fair, and Careers Day on May 2.

For students considering higher education or employment in the health sciences, a visit to the Medical Center offers an introduction to the range of vocational choices available.

Here are the largest colleges of medicine and dentistry as well as the largest library of health sciences in Illinois. The campus also houses the state's sole college of pharmacy, only school of public health, most comprehensive college of nursing, and a school of associated medical sciences offering six allied health disciplines.

The Colleges of Nursing, Dentistry, and Pharmacy will be open to the public from 1 to 5 p.m. The College of Medicine, University of Illinois Hospital, and Chicago Illini Union will be open from 1 to 8 p.m.

The University of Illinois at the Medical Center is located 800 south and 1800 west in the heart of the world's largest health complex, the West Side Medical Center District.

The Chicago Illini Union, 828 S. Wolcott, is the suggested starting and reunion spot for the day's activities.

Girls file for board

By Greg Palumbo

Two freshmen coeds have filed for the post of student representative to the Board of Trustees.

They are Stacy McGahey, 17, and Gail Werth, 18, both political science transfer students. McGahey had no competition until the last day for filing Friday.

The election will be held May 6-7, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. at the east doorway of K Bldg. and the northwest entrance of A Bldg.

The student trustee has a voice on the board but no voting power.

McGahey said she wants to be elected because she feels the Board members have no insight to the problems of students.

As a matter of fact, she said, "When I get out of school, I'd like to be a board member."

She works in the Student Activities office as a student government secretary and is the Extension College representative.

Werth filed last Friday because of a story she read in the Courier.

"A single choice for representative would defeat the whole purpose of the student's position on the board," she said. "This enticed me to apply."

Miss Werth said she has campaigned for Rep. John Erlenborn. She was on the Naperville Central High School student advisory council. She is a member of the National Junior College Honor Society.

She said she would like to set up a separate office for student complaints to funnel them to the Board.

Monte Carlo action: 19 passes in a row

By Diane Pesek

Insanity reigned supreme last Saturday night in the Campus Center as Student Activities did a tremendous job in presenting "Monte Carlo Night."

Thanks to the efforts of Debbie Walker of the decorations committee, the Campus Center was transformed into a replica of "Harold's Club," located in Reno, Nev.

Gigantic playing cards and pairs of dice were hanging from the ceiling and added to the atmosphere. There was gambling in every direction, and the action was hot and heavy all night long.

Customers paid an entrance fee of one dollar and received $15,000 in play money. The early action centered on the blackjack tables, where there were no empty seats throughout the night.

At the start, there was just two blackjack tables but the heavy play forced the opening of two more tables.

"Beat the Dealer" proved to be an unusually popular game early in the evening due to a mistake on the dealer's part. This game is simply a case of the player trying to roll a higher number than the dealer. However, this particular female dealer chose to roll her number and then ask the players to place their bet. Can you imagine the action when she rolled snake eyes?!!!!

There were several touches of class throughout the evening, including a super show by Dr. Lambert's Swing Singers. They sang and danced their own special way and were greeted by rousing applause, which could even be heard over the yells from the crap table.

However, Bob Marshall's Jazz Band proved that nothing is louder than his brass section. Their music is super, also, but how many people can enjoy it while plastered to the wall?

Maria LeClaire, Student Body president, suprised everyone by trying to copy Edie Adams' famous commercial rendition of "Cigars, Cigarettes, Tipparillos!" But Rich Little is in no danger of competition from LeClaire. But she showed everyone by making $101.25 in tips!! Unfortunately, a hundred dollars of it was play money.

There were several gambling stories that are worth retelling. A man playing roulette was being hounded by his wife, who wanted to leave. The man angrily agreed and slammed all his money down on number 33. Do I have to tell you? Winner, winner!!!! That number bet paid him 30-1 and insured him staying to the end of the evening, deaf to his wife's pleas.

The favorite story of the night was at the crap table. A man betting $1,000 made 19 passes in a row and only came out of it with $19,000. It seems that his girlfriend thought she'd keep his pile of money nice and neat by holding whatever he won. He would have broken the bank, if she had let it stand, to the tune of $262,144,000.!!!

Door prizes were drawn throughout the night, with the prizes ranging from dinner for two to the grand prize of a eight-track stereo system, which had been donated by Stereoland. The lucky winner of the system was the hard working decoration girl, Debbie Walker.

"If anyone deserved it, she did," said activities director Joe Gilbert. "She worked her butt off all day to get the decorations in place. And it's not the easiest job in the world when you try and change the Campus Center into Harold's Club!"

There were several sad notes to the evening, however. The purpose of the event was to raise money to support the upcoming referendum. Dr. Berg and the Board of Trustees have been pushing it for a long time, with the supposed backing of the faculty.

But of the above-mentioned groups, only Bill Bell of the English Department was seen. Now if this referendum is so important, where the hell were all the big guns?

The other glaring problem was the obvious lack of volunteers. There were about 25 of those on hand and the number needed to be doubled.

Because of the shortness of help, three tables never opened up at all. Volunteers were forced to work the entire five hours of the benefit without the aid of a break.

It was announced that $327 was taken in during the evening. It really puts your imagination to work on the income possibilities if the people concerned had showed and all the tables had opened.

Monitor DuPage courts daily

By Terry Jo Hughes

DuPage residents are being offered an unusual opportunity to observe and evaluate first-hand the operations of state misdemeanor courts through a court-watching project coordinated by the League of Women Voters of Illinois.

According to Cynthia Ingols, CD political science instructor and chairperson of the DuPage County Steering Committee for the project, DuPage is one of four counties in Illinois chosen to participate in this three-year pilot program. Monitors are placed in three DuPage courts daily in collect data on certain aspects of judicial proceedings. College credit can be earned by the monitors, some of whom are CD students.

The project is funded by a $50,000 grant given to the League of Women Voters of Illinois by the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission. DuPage, Champaign, Warren and Cook counties are participating in the program.

Ingols says the group's objectives are twofold: to collect data and information, and to set up a model for other groups that might want to start such a project in the future.

DuPage's program started last October, she said, with the formation of the local steering committee and the recruiting of monitors. Training sessions were held for the monitors, in which the general proceedings of the courts were explained to some 40 monitors by area lawyers.

A mock trial, or re-enactment of an actual case that had gone through the court, was held to further familiarize the volunteers with operations. Actual court watching began in February and will continue through June, 1975.

Monitors will record such data as the number of continuances granted, reasons given for these, the percentage of cases representing so-called victimless crimes such as prostitution, gambling, drug use, and vagrancy, whether or not defendants are made aware of their rights by the judges. The physical facilities will also be observed. A final report will be issued this summer.

"I've really found the project fascinating myself," commented Ingols, "and the monitors are very enthusiastic toward it, especially the 12 earning credit."

Ingols said the reception given the project by the judges has been very cordial and cooperative.

This project is an offshoot of a nationwide interest in the judicial system which sparked the creation of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in 1968, Ingols said. The Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) receives funds from this federal group. ILEC then distributes these funds to organizations submitting proposals for study related to the judicial system.

The DuPage Bar Association, the DuPage County YWCA, the American Association of University Women (AAUW), Lationos Unidos de DuPage, the Democratic Women's Caucus and the College of DuPage are some of the organizations participating in the project.

Ingols said the project has had tremendous response from the public. "We had more people volunteering than we could use. It's a real educational experience; any student interested in going to law school might want to participate."

After the initial phase is completed and the steering committee issues its report, Ingols said, the program will be expanded to monitor additional courts. It is hoped that by the third year, permanent community-based projects will be established in the four counties and that a general format can be set up for other groups wishing to initiate similar programs.

Ingols has a long standing interest in the American judiciary. She has done graduate study at American University in Washington, D.C.

"The justice system has been under attack recently, and perhaps this is because of misunderstanding by the public. Through the project, we hope to educate citizens as to what actually goes on in the courts," Ingols said, "and develop some positive suggestions for improvement."

Models feature offbeat fashions

Baby-doll pajamas made out of Handi-wipes and rain garments fashioned out of garbage bags will be some of the 80 unusual fashions to be modeled Sunday, May 4, at the fourth annual fashion show entitled "Fashion Fights Inflation."

Open free to the public, the show will feature both the conventional and unconventional fashion, modeled by the students in the college's Fashion Design program. The show will be held at 2 p.m. in the Convocation Center.

In addition to a wide array of dresses, coats, beach wear and pant suits, there will be other innovative styles displayed including plastic lid covers worked into a dress, and a floral bed sheet turned evening gown. There will also be a display of fashion illustrations done by students.

Orders for garments may be placed with individual students after the showing.

In depression now, loan expert asserts

By Bob Lapinski

"I hate to say it but we're not in a recession right now; we are in a depression," George Bodie, vice-president of the Bank for Savings and Loan Associations, told a Consumer in Crisis audience April 23.

He spoke to a group in Downers Grove South High School. The series, which continues Wednesdays through May 14, is sponsored by College of DuPage.

The gross national product, said Bodie, has dropped for the last six quarters.

We have an unemployment rate of 9.2 percent that the government admits to. "And if they admit to 9.2 percent it must be at least 10 percent," stated Bodie.

Another indication of the country's downward trend is the inflation rate. The United States had a 12 percent inflation rate in 1974, but this still wasn't as bad as the rest of the world, commented Bodie. England's inflation rate was 17 percent. Italy was 19 and Japan was 23 during this same time period. Yet, this was nothing compared to Brazil's 30 and Taiwan's 51 percent.

An optimistic sign, said Bodie, is the lowering of the prime interest rate. It was at 12 percent within the last 12 months but is now down to almost 7 percent.

The function of savings and loans are to help the people in land and home ownership, he explained.

There is a certain breed of people which Bodie referred to as "credit drunks," however, that abuse credit and handle it improperly.

Bodie emphasized that when an individual does abuse credit it hurts us all. This is because the money that the lending institution loses on that deal is essentially our money, the money they have used and put to work. This is why a downpayment on a loan is not only to protect the savings and loan but to protect the public.

Bodie particularly stressed the government's waste of the taxpayers' money. Our major problem, he said, is we are giving away money we should be using within the country. We threw away $150 billion in Viet Nam, he said.

"The Communists say we'll bury ourselves eventually, and we are," said Bodie.

The politicians are trying to find a solution by election time but it just won't be that easy. Lifting the economy is a major facelift and it simply can't be performed overnight, according to Bodie.

CAC okays 6 credits for special projects

The Curriculum Authentication Committee (CAC) decided Monday that the proposal for course Number 198, titled Special Projects, be sent to the colleges for approval.

The course provides a means of accrediting work projects and lecture series in any area of learning including occupational curriculum. A student seeking an associate degree at College of DuPage may have the option of earning up to six quarter hours of credit through such a project.

The committee approved redefining courses 211, 212 and 213 as art rather than art history, with the specification that those courses refer to art in western civilization. The introduction of a new course, No. 214 on Non-Western Art, was approved.

The committee decided to send an evaluation of business course 060 to the business teacher with the prospect of changing the number of credit hours from one to two.

Under new business the committee discussed a definition and statement of its own purpose. Members debated whether the function of CAC overlaps that of the Instruction Council and whether the assistant dean or the deans actually represent the colleges on CAC. Dave Malek proposed that the committee discuss at length the philosophy of curriculum at the meeting May 12 after a one-hour coverage of remaining agenda. The proposal was accepted.

BOOKSTORE SALES ZOOM

Yearly sales at the bookstore have skyrocketed 30 percent over the same period last year.

Vern Hendricks, manager, said that through April 21 the store had sold more than $609,000 in books and supplies.

Sales for the first week of spring quarter, despite the snowstorm, were up 23 percent over opening week in 1974. Sales were $89,700 compared to last year's total of $73,100.

Dome building course offered

You too can build a Geodesic Dome.

Jan Wehrheim, architect, is teaching an Alpha extension course in her studio in York Center on Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

The three-credit hour course is called Geodesic Domes, Model Designing and Building and is a form of architecture first recognized in 1949.

More than 100,000 domes have been built around the country, including the dome designed by Ms. Wehrheim in the York Center Church of the Brethren.

The dome, a structure built solely from triangles, is of minimum cost and materials and is attractive but also strong.

The course covers dome design using basic math skills and offers information on material and cost estimation.

Upon completion of the course a full sized home or greenhouse dome will be designed.

A course may also be offered this summer called "The Dome Comes Home", where students will get a chance to travel to Black Mountain College, North Carolina, where the first dome was built by Buckminster Fuller in the 1940's.

Anyone interested in either of the above programs should contact the Alph Office, J107 or call ext. 356.

Meador fund grows to $2,500

A student-faculty softball game on Thursday, May 8, will benefit the John Meador Fund. The game will start at 12:30 on the softball diamond behind the Courier barn and voluntary contributions will be accepted.

The game is the third in a series of benefits planned. Last Friday's Tag Day, organized by the speech team, netted $1,100, and two weeks ago the Kappa card marathon raised over $1,400. With a goal of $10,000, the John Meador Benefit Fund has now reached the one-quarter mark.

Meador, former editor of the Courier, was critically injured in an automobile accident on March 19 which resulted in paralysis of his legs, and is now at Hines Veterans Administration Hospital. Cards and letters may be addressed to him there, 5th and Roosevelt, Hines, Ill. 60141.

Future Meador Fund plans include benefit performances of Carter Carroll's original play "The Hawk of St. Willowies", which will be presented May 23-24 and May 29-30-31. Admission will be free but donations accepted.

Cinderfellas clinch conference crown

The DuPage track team beat Joliet by a mile, 76-68, to take the conference title and placed eighth in the Carthage Invitational later in the week.

The outcome of the meet depended on the outcome of the mile relay which was worth five points. The score was 71-68 before the beginning of the mile relay.

The CD mile relay team of Bob Reimer, Randy Barclay, Dennis Sitzler and Bruce Semerski ran the relay in 3:29.8 to give the event and the meet to DuPage.

Individual winners for DuPage were: Jim Wackenheim and Roy Darby, pole-vault, 13'6"; Mark Johnson, shot-put, 45'9"; Chuck Kennedy, javelin, 55'; Bill Klippert, high hurdles, 15.3; Ken Suchomel, intermediate hurdles; Jeff Klemann, half, 2:06.2; John Brandli, mile, 4:37; and Ron Piro, three-mile, 15:15.

In the 11-team Carthage Invitational won by Carthage with 129 points, CD finished eighth with 30 points.

Running superbly for DuPage was Piro who placed in two events. He finished third in the six-mile with 30:26, which bettered national qualifying time by four seconds, while also placing fourth in the three-mile with 14:39.

Other CD placers were: Wackenheim, tied for first, pole-vault, 13'6"; Kennedy, javelin, 164'10"; Klippert, fourth, high hurdles, 15.1 (which tied the school record); and Johnson, sixth, shot-put, 44'11".

Racquettes shut-out 9-0; record now 1-3

The Racquettes tennis team lost all six singles matches and all three doubles matches to Harper early last week.

"I feel Terry King should have won her match if she would have played as good as she could," said women's tennis coach June Grahn, "but I feel that the reason we were beat so bad is because of the depth of Harper, who may take the junior college title at the invitational this year."

If the scores are examined one does find that the explanation for the loss does have merit, since Harper had 12 girls competing to CD's six.

In the singles matches the scores were: Terry King losing to Sue Kelly 4-6, 3-6; Sue Gurgone losing to Kathy Zyrkowski 3-6, 0-6; Marshaly Adams losing to Karelia Hussission 1-6, 1-6; Pearl Hitzke lost to Cathy Aldana 2-6, 0-6; Mary Kay Viebrock lost to Anita Jay 1-6, 1-6; and Denise Dempsey lost to Maggie McCormick 2-6, 0-6.

The doubles results were: King and Gurgone losing to DeWitt and Redeen 3-6, 4-6; Adams and Hitzke losing to Gilmore and Hopkins 1-6, 2-6; and Viebrock and Dempsey losing to Adernczyk and Potter 2-6, 3-6.

But Coach Grahn feels that the season will improve this week at home.

Despite rain, Chaps reign over N4C

By Dave Heun

The skies opened up and let loose again this past weekend, dumping enough rain in the area to make a shambles of anybody's baseball field, and cancelling still more ball games.

However, the Chap nine snuck in games on Thursday and Saturday, beating Illinois Valley 3-0, and splitting a doubleheader with Harper, losing 2-1 and winning 3-1.

The beginning of this week featured confusion galore, as the Chaps were attempting to get the sectional tournament in Kishwaukee underway. Kishwaukee's field resembled a lake, so the games were moved to Kankakee.

The Chaps entered the tourney with a 15-8 record, ranked fifth in the state and involved in a wild four-way race for the N4C title with Rock Valley (still ranked no. 1 in the state), Illinois Valley and Thornton. All four teams boast identical 3-1 records in conference action.

Against IVC last Thursday, pitchers Pat Heraty and Dave Tapar combined for a shut-out performance in the 3-0 victory.

"Heraty looked real sharp, and Tapar did a fine job, too," said coach John Persons. "We are attempting to get all of our pitchers ready for the tournament. I can't really yet say who our top arms are. I'm just hoping to have about five pitchers ready to go."

The score of the IVC game going into the top of the sixth inning was deadlocked at zero. In the top of the sixth, DuPage's Jim Cozzi singled, and went all the way to third on a Sam Taves single. After Taves stole second, both raced home on a big single by Carl Fieldler.

In the top of the eighth, Taves smacked a double and cruised home on Tom Christensen's single. This gave the Chaps their 3-0 lead.

Saturday the Chaps went to Harper where they split their games. The first contest was a 2-1 setback for the Chaps. Four errors led to two unearned runs and cost them the ball game. Dave Nickleson was on the mound for the Chaps, and while he pitched very well, his defense left much to be desired. He committed three of the teams four errors and this proved costly to his own cause.

Carl Fiedler and Kevin Steger combined for the second game win. After the Hawks scored an unearned run in the first inning, Fiedler and Steger put the clamps on them and the Chaps breezed to a 3-1 win.

A two run fifth inning was all the Chaps really needed. Jim Nachtman singled, and after Gary Ayala reached on an error, Taves walked to load the bases. Greg Schmidt delivered the big blow here with a single to drive across two runs.

Steger earned a save in the game, his fourth on the season, and he now owns a 2-0 record.

The Chaps Justin Page is sporting a .420 batting average, good for the 10th slot in the state.

Schmidt places fourth in the state with his home run total of four, while Taves is tied for the top spot in the triple category with five.

Depending on who beats who, what fields are playable, and what times teams can be at certain locations, the tournament sectionals and inter-sectional games will be played sometime during the week.

The Chaps were scheduled to play either Joliet or Kishwaukee on Tuesday at Kankakee.

'Rec' majors to stage fun and fitness day for kids

CD's Outdoor Recreation class members will be offering a real treat for college students and district citizens during the next two weeks with some unusual fun activities.

The special events will start off with the students working in cooperation with the Glen Ellyn Park District on Saturday, May 10, with a program built around the theme of "Fitness is FUN-damental" for 1975. The affair, which will be held at Lake Ellyn, will be a city-wide "Play For Fun and Fitness Day," sponsored by the park district and assisted by CD recreation majors.

Youngsters aged 6-12 who live in Glen Ellyn or attend Glen Ellyn schools are invited to gather for a special program devoted to games, competitions and physical fitness tests to determine skill and achievement. The activities will run from 1-3 p.m.

A special event being programmed for both the boys and girls will be a giant battle with parachutes between teams to be chosen that day.

Remaining girls activities are distance running, sit-ups, kickball, burpees and running bases on a time basis. Other boys' activities are baseball throw, base running, fungo hitting, push-ups, burpees and parachute games.

Competitions for both boys and girls will be divided into the following age levels: 6-9-10 and 11-12 years.

Achievement Certificates will be awarded with appropriate ceremonies after the skills have been judged.

Racqueteters win year's most important match

By Steve Conran

The Chaps won their most important match of the season Wednesday by defeating Illinois Valley 4-1, who came into the match ranked no. one in both the conference and the state. Several Chaps played well under the pressure of the teams first "must match" of the year.

Lance Rockwell won 6-2, 6-2 over an outstanding opponent, John Cheli, last years conference runner-up player in singles play.

Badei Khoury got off to a slow start against Bob Rodrigex, trailing 0-5 in the first set. By keeping a great attitude Khoury came on strong rallying to win 7-5, 6-3. Third singles Gary Keyes played well despite losing 2-6, 3-6. The doubles teams of Greg Carlock and Shawn VanKampen won handily 6-1, 6-4 as did Mike Reiss and Mark Chomko 6-1, 6-2.

"This was the team's finest meet of the year," said Coach Dave Webster.

On Friday, the Chaps continued their winning ways soundly defeating Wright 5-0.

Again leading the singles play was Rockwell who used devastating serves and a variety of soft drop shots to ship his opponent 6-2, 6-2. Khoury, who played a strong supporting role used some fine net play to win 6-2, 6-2. Van Kampen used his line drive volleys to win 6-3, 6-3. In doubles play Reiss and Chomko displayed some fine teamwork as they walloped their opposition 6-2, 6-1 with Carlock and Keyes completing the sweep 6-0, 6-7 and 6-1.

The Chaps also defeated Sauk Valley 4-2 on Saturday.

Rockwell won his tough singles competition 6-4, 6-2. Khoury then went down to his first defeat of the season 7-5, 2-6 and 1-6 while Reiss and Chomko won 6-2, 6-2.

Slugging Chapettes halted by injuries and errors

By Klaus Wolff

The Chapettes softball team drubbed Whitewater 22-6 on Saturday, but were themselves gassed by Northern Illinois University 15-0 last Tuesday to give them a 3-1 record.

The Chapettes lost for three reasons: errors, injury and the pitching of NIU's Cindy Diamond.

Were it not for the errors which were committed by Sharon Fallon, Lee O'Brien, Lori Condie, Mona Condie and two by Jean Phillips (who has terrific fielding range and ability, but has the tendency to not throw the ball accurately or quickly enough), NIU would not have scored their first ten runs. This makes the score 5-0.

Then there was Diamond who struck out seven with a wicked fastball, while allowing just five hits.

The injury of course was to Linda Roberts who hopefully was just out for that game. Her replacement in the clean-up spot Lori Condie, did an admirable job as her replacement in poking a single and in sending a cannon shot into right field for a triple, but those hits could have been used in the number one spot in the line-up for which Lori Condie is admirably suited.

Peg Gaudin who batted in the lead-off spot also had two hits, singles, but they could have been used in the bottom part of the order. The other hit, also a single was by Mary Ann Papanek.

But the determining factor in losing the game may have taken place before the game even started. This of course is the psychological edge, wherein one player was heard to comment: "No one expects us to win." This type of attitude does not hurt a loser, but it can damage a very good team that could be a great team like this one is, as evidenced by their three opening victories, all by whopping margins incidentally.

In their game against Whitewater, the winning run was scored by Fallon in the second inning. The leading hitter was Lori Condie with three hits, while Roberts, Nancy Beresky and Laura Durling all scored three runs. Phillips led the team with four RBI's. The team's first homerun was hit by Roberts.

Season statistics are: 72 runs, 64 hits, 147 at bats and a .435 BA.
