10-1-2011

The Swimming Pool

Tricia Marcella Cimera

College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: http://dc.cod.edu/plr

Recommended Citation Available at: http://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol33/iss1/71

This Selection is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@C.O.D.. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@C.O.D.. For more information, please contact koteles@cod.edu.
I am swimming in a swimming pool in the midst of a forest green growing tangled and exotic a pool made of cool mosaic tile not natural but intrinsic I am alongside many fishes whose names I can’t recall like them I am kinetic, aquatic insects are humming, buzzing and churring melodic hypnotic I swim through blue water wet outside, wet inside wet through and through, erotic the water begins churning, roiling fish growing fierce, giving chase wild and chaotic I flee from the fish but am caught we struggle, demonic then the water is calmly still again smooth as milk cream, a tonic opening my mouth wide I drink, swallow taste euphoric floating on my back, I see the sky, see the swimming pool inverted blue sky water, fish cloud-darting erratic there I am, am I still swimming?
It washes over me in a wave frenetic I know what these fish are called I know that I cannot swim, then one moment of gasping panic turns ecstatic, stretching on and on, stretching on, just like elastic one lap in the swimming pool of mystic