College sets new course agreement with UIC

BY ROB BEALES
STAFF WRITER

College of DuPage Engineering and Computer Science students will find it possible to take third-year courses here thanks to an agreement between COD and the University of Illinois at Chicago.

The "Junior Year" agreement will take effect at the start of the 97-98 school year. The agreement will make UIC courses available at the Glen Ellyn campus.

"This process will probably be preceded by students already transferring to UIC and then taking the courses they can here," said College of DuPage President, Michael Murphy. "I'm sure that the student could transfer to another engineering program at a school where a similar program is available."

Courses will have instructors from the University of Illinois at Chicago faculty. These instructors will be from the regular faculty and will not be made up of a separate staff.

The courses will be either elective or requirement courses for many UIC baccalaureate programs. They will range from Engineering Economy to Foundations of Computer Science.

After these third-year courses, students will complete their senior year for the purpose of qualifying for a Bachelor of Science degree on the UIC campus, if that is where they attend.

Thousands gathered last Thursday to be informed by over 250 colleges from all over the country at the 14th annual College Fair.

Students from both COD and nearby high schools ventured out to speak to representatives and find out more about college.

Both students and parents gathered in the PE Arena to talk to representatives and gather general information about where they might continue their educations.

Bridget Berg and Annie Maguire were two who had gotten through their explorations and were looking through their catalogs.

"You can see the (colleges) you want," Berg said. "It's a good resource."

Six schools were highlighted at the fair. These included the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Illinois State University, and Northern, Southern, Eastern and Western Illinois Universities.

These, along with tables for COD representatives, attracted crowds.

Oct. 9

At 2:30 a.m., a women's five-speed bicycle was found on a sidewalk on the west side of SRC south. The bike had two flat tires and had not been reported stolen. The bike was impounded. It is described as a blue Schwinn Collegiate bicycle and is valued at $50.

At 2:30 a.m., an oxygen cylinder was found unsecured in the dock area of the Arts Center. The cylinder was placed on a transport cart in the IC Building and was put into the warehouse for storage.

A handrail was reported broken in the LRC. A reference librarian reported that she had heard someone fall on the stairwell. When she looked to see what had happened, she saw that a section of the handrail was broken off.

The librarian had asked the victim twice if he was okay. However, all the victim had to say to her was that his jeans were torn.

The broken section of the handrail was found to be about as wide and about the size of a large broom handle.

It was found that the victim had gone to the Health Center for medical help. When that officer asked the victim what had happened, he stated that he had been coming down the stair, became dizzy, and leaned on the hand rail for support. When he did, the hand rail broke and he tore his jeans.

Oct. 16

At 1:58 p.m., a supervisor at the LRC called Public Safety about a man who had set off the security gate alarm, had run off, but then returned. When an officer arrived, the suspect handed him a book with its bar code removed from the front page. After the suspect was informed of his Miranda rights, he took the officer to the third floor of the LRC.

In one of the aisles, the suspect found the bar code and admitted to tearing it out of the book. The suspect was put under arrest and was later released on $100 bond.

Oct. 19

At 11:54 a.m., a complainant came and reported articles stolen from his car. The complainant had arrived for class at 2:45 p.m. the day before. He came back to his car and found that someone had broken into it. The complainant said that he had locked the car before he left.

Items from the car, which included personal items and school textbooks, have been valued at $590.

Human Resources takes over student employment function

BY LEE DIVITA
STAFF WRITER

Students seeking employment on campus can now turn to the Human Resources department for assistance. The operation left the Financial Aid office in late August.

The move was a joint effort between the Financial Aid, Human Resources, and Student Affairs offices.

Most other institutions have student employment linked to the Financial Aid office because employment offers students financial assistance.

However, it was felt the move would help the college with its work flow issues. This is because most of the procedures Financial Aid was doing was already being done by Human Resources.

"We are responsible for hiring, recruiting, and training all of the employees of the college," said Personnel Assistant and Recruiter for the department Cheryl Johnson.

Human Resources offers a job hotline that students can listen to that tells which departments are looking for help.

There are approximately 120 campus departments that are currently using student employees.

The office also offers students a support staff.

Included in this support staff is Student Employees Assistant Rob Rivera. Rivera is responsible for helping the student pick jobs best suited to their personal experience and skills possessed.

Rivera also assists the student in making an appointment with the department supervisor to set up an interview.

Johnson feels that the move has been beneficial to the program. Human Resources wanted to strive for a counseling-type atmosphere. A lot of students have never worked before and don't know how to fill out application or what to say in interviews.

"We hope to give them some real work experience and also some real-life experience," Johnson said.

In order for a student to be eligible for student employment, they must be registered for a least 6 quarter hours and hold a 2.0 GPA.

Current clerical, groundskeeping, and PE-related jobs are paying $6 an hour. Custodial and Public Safety positions are paying $6.80 an hour.

Salary increases are available after a student has remained at the same position for four quarters. This service is also available year-round.

Anyone interested should fill out an application available at the Human Resources Office located at SRC 2053.

Celebrating global efforts

•Symposium to recognize anniversaries of international programs

BY CHRIS LAFORTUNE
EDITOR IN CHIEF

Speakers from government and business have been invited to speak at the 50/10 Symposium, which will celebrate the anniversaries of two programs designed to strengthen international education.

The event is being held to celebrate both the fiftieth anniversary of the Fulbright programs and the tenth anniversary of the Illinois Consortium for International Studies and Programs (ICISP).

The reason the two anniversaries are being celebrated together, according to International Education Coordinator Zinta Konrad, is because the ICISP had been awarded to Fulbright two consecutive years.

It was through this that 30 faculty members throughout Illinois had the chance to travel to China and Zimbabwe for study.

"That's the reason we feel we should celebrate Fulbright," Konrad said. "We want to focus attention on those international exchanges."

A collaborative effort between 42 midwestern colleges and Illinois State University, the ICISP was developed in an effort to internationalize student, faculty and curricula of those institutions.

Mary Fulbright

The Fulbright programs, which began in 1946 after the law was passed developing the first international educational exchange program. The program was developed to foster international exchange and understanding.

The symposium, which will be held in the SRC 2800, begins on Nov. 7 and goes until Nov. 8.

Among the speakers for the event are former Illinois Senator Charles Percy,

Charles Percy

Senator Paul Simon and Harriet Mayor Fulbright, who was executive secretary of the Fulbright Association from 1987-1991.

Simon will be addressing the issue of the future of America through A Vision for the 21st Century.

Fulbright will be speaking about her husband J.W. Fulbright in J.W. Fulbright: The Man and the Vision.

Both Simon and Fulbright will be speaking on the first day of the event.

While the second day of the event will feature various panel discussions on the ICISP, there will also be two keynote speakers.

One of these speakers

Paul Simon

will be Percy, who will be addressing the importance of technology in Appropriate Technology in the Middle East.

Although he receives many requests for speeches, Percy felt that speaking at the symposium was especially important.

"I served with Senator Fulbright on the Foreign Relations Committee," Percy said. "He was chairman at the time."

Percy is currently the president of Charles Percy and Associates (CPA) in Washington D.C. CPA specializes in helping U.S. corporations increase business abroad.

has a five-year duration. At that time, evaluations will take place to determine whether the program will be renewed.

It is also possible that, if the program is successful, that fourth-year courses could be offered, allowing students the opportunity to maintain stability while still achieving their educational goals.

This versatility could end up boosting the image of community and state institutions by showing that student needs are being addressed.

"Many students end up working for the companies that they may be working for when they leave to go to school and then return to those companies in an upgraded position," Murphy said.

Another aspect is bringing the universities closer to the COD students and making transfer arrangements easier to accommodate.

Also in the works is a possible arrangement with Northern Illinois University to establish a similar program with its Business Department.

Programs such as these could become a large part of life at College of DuPage if students demand is strong enough to warrant it.

These programs could encourage students to continue their educations by making transitions to four-year institutions unnecessary, making COD an extension of many universities.

Questions over facility naming board policy

Recently, the Board of Trustees Policy Committee proposed a policy to outline criteria for naming college facilities.

This policy is a long time in coming, and it is about time the board take action on a topic that they continually face.

According to the policy, "the naming of facilities is to honor men and women who have distinguished themselves in the greater community of the college."

The committee will be forwarding the policy to the Board at the next meeting for approval. After that the policy can be pursued and passed into existence.

We are glad that there such a policy is currently being considered. Often times, there is no honor that could be better bestowed than naming a facility after someone.

There are things, however, that we have questions about. The policy states that people who have given "significant financial contribution" can be considered for facility naming.

The policy also states that people can be recognized if they have given "distinguished service" to the college.

What we don't understand is why the categories have been separated. Does not a significant financial contribution mean that a person is doing a distinguished service for the college.

Certainly, George Seaton did a great service to the college by donating the money to help construct the Seaton Computing Center.

Students are now able to use vast amounts of technology both outside of and inside the classroom because of the computers available in the computing center.

This would seem, by definition, to be a "distinguished service."

Yet another service that could be considered distinguished would be the construction of the Gahlberg Gallery.

The construction of the Gahlberg was made possible through the significant financial contribution of William Gahlberg.

The Gahlberg Gallery attracts a variety of exhibits from all types of concepts and media.

This also must certainly contribute a distinguished service to the college, and yet again, financial contribution played a large part in its development.

These examples are the only two that are present at the college. By looking at these two, it would appear that distinguished service and significant financial contribution go hand in hand.

So the question is, why separate the two from one another? If a group is willing to pursue naming a facility after someone, than that group should be willing to put up money for the honor.

The idea of facility naming is to immortalize the person for whom the facility is being named. Long after that person is forgotten, their name will live on.

And as much as we would all like to see distinguished service be enough when naming a facility after someone, that should not be the case.

If someone is truly deserving of a memorial such as naming a facility at the college after them, then there should be a cost to that. Service to the college is invaluable, but in the long run, it is money that talks.

Take back our society

Isn't it obvious? That the capitalist upper class controls the U.S. Presidency, the government, the Republican and Democratic parties, the mass media, the educational system, the military, the courts, the stock market, most private property, all the major corporations and 70 percent of the national wealth?

Do you really believe that the capitalist elites are going to give up their massive amounts of wealth and power just because you voted to have a real democracy? Do you really believe that they care about anything else except preserving their elite position in society?

Are you shocked by their greed and lies and their destruction of the Earth? Shocked by their propaganda trying to stifle what we know in our hearts to be true? Hello?

Screw voting!

We need revolutionaries and we need them now! We need people who are going to stir things up who are going to take risks, who are going to challenge power, who are going to say "enough of this!"

We need visionaries who see clearly that the time has come for the people to take complete control over the entire U.S. economic system-creating the world's first political and economic democracy. A double democracy! The whole world will follow our lead!

We need fearless ones who will never kneel to the power elite, who will organize and mobilize, who will seize this moment in history, to save our democracy, save our country. The whole world is waiting.

The Revolution needs you now!

How to live a longer life

The New York Times recently published an article on life expectancy in various nations in 1996. Some of the figures are sad, some heartening - but one thing stood out for me, which I will relate in a moment.

In the United States today, life expectancy for a man is 73 years and for a woman 79 years.

Scanning the list, it is saddening to look at a country like Zambia in Africa where the life expectancy for both men and women is 36 years.

But look at these numbers compared to the U.S.'s 73 and 79:

Canada: 76 for men, 83 for women; Britain, 74 and 79; France, 74 and 82; Greece, 76 and 81; Netherlands, 75 and 81; Norway, 74 and 81; Spain, 74 and 81; Sweden, 76 and 82; Switzerland, 75 and 82; Australia, 76 and 83; New Zealand, 74 and 80; Israel, 76 and 81, and Japan, 76 and 83.

Many nations were not listed, but of the nations that are listed and have a longer average life span than the United States, one important fact stands out: All have national health care systems.

We have 41 million Americans without health care coverage. None of the nations where the people live longer than we do has anything remotely similar to that percentage.

A poll in Canada a few years ago found 56 percent of the people satisfied with their health care system, not bad, but an indication that improvements are needed. But when asked if they would prefer to have the health care delivery system that we have in the United States, only 3 percent said they would like the U.S. system.

I am sure that if the United States figures were to be divided into people with above average income and those with below average income, there would be a startling difference in life expectancy.

We punish people for being poor. That's what the terrible "welfare reform" bill that passes Congress also did, and that's what our system of health delivery does.

We ought to do better.

Paul Simon

Curbing illegal immigration

While most Americans understand that people want to come to this country to provide a better future for their families, they believe immigrants should come here through legal channels.

Unfortunately, according to the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS), 4.5 million illegal aliens live in the U.S., and only 45,000 illegal aliens are deported from the U.S. each year.

As a nation, we can no longer turn a blind eye to the strains that illegal immigration places on taxpayers and our communities. I recently voted in favor of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigration Responsibility Act (H.R. 2202) which passed the House and Senate and was passed into law.

Taxpayers will spend a staggering $26 billion in 1996 to provide welfare benefits to non-citizens - the vast majority of this total goes to illegal aliens even though they are not eligible for most of these programs.

H.R. 2202 builds upon the recently enacted welfare reform law to strengthen enforcement of current prohibitions against illegal aliens taking such benefits.

The Welfare Act prohibits illegal aliens from federal benefits and restricts states and localities from enrolling illegal aliens in nonfederally funded programs unless state legislature expressly endorses the aid.

Views of the new Student Government President

BY BRIAN BRADLEY
FEATURES EDITOR

The Student Government Association has a new face filling its top seat. Dan Eastman took over as SGA President last June and is working on making changes throughout the college.

Eastman explained that he had made great strides throughout the SGA and is now focusing his attention towards the students.

"I've kept the SGA together through internal conflicts," Eastman said.

"I am now trying to integrate SGA into the college structure," Eastman added.

According to Eastman, there is a difficulty making changes due to the lack of involvement by the student body.

"Students should take interest in their government," Eastman said.

"The issues that we are dealing with are issues that are about each student's education."

According to Eastman, past Student Government Presidents had been considered controversial with their attempt at radical change.

"For the past seven years SGA has become an ineffective organization. Past Presidents attempted to make a radical change either for popularity or because it is a personal battle for them," Eastman said.

"They forgot what they are supposed to do as President," Eastman added.

The new Prairie Light Review

BY BRIAN BRADLEY
FEATURES EDITOR

Writers, photographers, and artists who are wondering what ever happened to the Prairie Light Review should rest easy. The PLR is still in existence and is in the process of planning out the first issue.

This quarter the Prairie Light Review will have an all new staff and new publication dates.

The new staff will be led by Glen Dudasik, the Editor and Chief. The Graphic Arts Editor is Laura Sosnowski. Lee DiVita is the Co-Editor and the Layout Editor is Hashim Khan.

"We are featuring an all new staff and we are trying to put together the best magazine that COD's had to date," Dudasik said.

One of the first problems that the new PLR staff ran into was lack of funding for the first issue.

"We are doing a Winter issue and a Spring issue because of budget limitations. This also allows us time to gather submissions," Dudasik said.

According to Dudasik, the Prairie Light Review will be opening up to all people in the district. The PLR plans to do this by having a longer run of magazines.

"We have found that the biggest complaint is accessibility, so we're trying to remedy that by producing more magazines for our reader," Dudasik said.

Another part of the new PLR is to open up the artistic genre to a wider audience.

"We are going to include a wide array of tastes in poetry, photography, and art," Dudasik said.

The deadline for the Winter issue of the PLR is Dec. 15 with the publication on Jan. 21.

Spring deadlines are still undecided.

College's introduces new program on Surgical Technology

BY BRIAN BRADLEY

new program will be co-sponsored through the college and Central Medical Education dealing with Surgical Technology.

Surgical technologists are members of a surgical team who work in conjunction with the surgeons, anesthesiologist, registered nurses, and other surgical personnel.

The technologists play a big role in surgical procedures before, during, and after surgery. Responsibilities include setting up the operating room, preparing surgical instruments, and preparing patients for surgery.

"The surgical program that is offered here is a one-year training program that leads to a certificate," Lauren Sharp, Associate Dean, said. "Students can also obtain the certificate through an AAS degree here."

According to Sharp, the program has been around for 26 years. The program started in the central DuPage hospitals.

"Students need to understand that it is advantageous that they are able to get the certificate through the college," Sharp said.

"We are able to give students college credit and financial aid," Sharp said. "We are able to keep the program in existence by co-sponsoring it."

The new classes offered will take a look at all of the major components of being a Surgical Technician.

According to Sharp, the classes will cover information, theories, procedures, and models.

"We are able to simulate the operating room environment and we perform clinicals in the hospital," Sharp said.

Sharp explained that the Surgical Technology program was added here because many students were interested in the program and were being forced to go outside of the district to get the training they need.

Through the rigorous training and expensive tuition, certified Surgical Technicians are able to make good starting pay.

On average students who obtain their certification in Surgical Technology make, on average, between nine to fifteen dollars starting.

In Illinois the starting average is eleven dollars and sixty-eight cents.

"The program is really extensive and requires a lot of work," Sharp said.

"However, the program is high quality and has a near 100% pass rate," Sharp added.

LEAA celebrates Hispanic Awareness Month

BY BRIAN BRADLEY
FEATURES EDITOR

Hispanic Heritage Month is a cultural celebration held throughout the country.

Here at the college, the Latino Ethnic Awareness Association (LEAA) celebrated the month with workshops and dances.

"I thought that we had a great turnout," Leo Torres, LEAA faculty advisor, said. "There was great participation from students and great cooperation from the college."

There were three main points to the Hispanic Heritage Month here at the college.

The first event was an introduction to the college for the incoming freshman.

"The introduction to the college was a way for Latino students to meet other students at the college," Torres said.

The second event was a U.S. Citizenship workshop.

"The U.S. Citizenship workshop was a way for us to help the people from DuPage County who wanted to apply for citizenship," Torres said.

"We had 60 to 70 participants who filled out the application to become citizens," Torres added.

The third event that LEAA participated in was the LEAA Fest which was held on Oct. 22.

According to Torres, the LEAA fest was a way to try and reach awareness about the different Latino cultures.

In addition to the fest and workshops, twelve to fifteen DuPage students participated in Coordinadora '96 on Oct. 12.

Coordinadora '96 is a march and rally on Washington D.C. Some of the concerns for the march were human and Constitutional rights for all, public education for all children, and preserve and expand public health services.

"The focus of the march was to provide information to the public about Latino problems in America," Torres said.

LEAA has many activities planned for the future. The Carnaval en Mayo, Day of the Dead, and an Easter drive are just a few of LEAA's yearly activities.

"We are trying to gain exposure of the Latino culture here in the college," Torres said.

College Theater to perform murder thriller, 'Heartland'

BY JASON JESKE
STAFF WRITER

The College Theater's first production this year is Kevin Heelan's intellectual thriller/murder mystery, Heartland.

Heartland has played on Broadway and received rather high praise from typically cynical critics. Heelan has been described kindly by the New York Post as "a writer who undeniably has the authentic touch of a playwright," and Heartland itself has been touted by the same publication as "an honest-y gripping psychological thriller."

This play seems to add to the recurring theme this year in the college's productions of putting on murder mysteries.

"It's a psychological drama that seems like a relative of a Sam Sheppard play if you put it in the context of other playwrights," said director Amelia Barrett.

"The play is really about family, community, what it means to be a man and what it means to have responsibility."

The play, as its name would seem to indicate, is set in a very small midwestern town that is plagued by a sudden and unexpected phenomenon of murders (no, horror movie fans, it's not a spin-off of Children of the Corn).

Skeet (played by Brian Hamman), the town's intellectual and emotional equivalent of Homer Simpson, decides to take matters into his own hands and solve the murders his own way to gain some respect in the very town that has made him an outcast.

However, Skeet finds out that he may be looking just a little bit too hard for his man and that he could be a lot closer to the murders than he had ever dreamed or hoped.

"The characters in the play are of an older generation than ours, and even though the story takes place in a small town in the midwest, it has a kind of desperateness to it that we all feel in trying to be someone and trying to be part of something and be above it," said Barrett of the plays theme.

The presentation is the college's directorial debut of Chicago's own Barrett, who has directed Hummulus Themur and The Love Song of J. Alfred Proufrock in the past.

Barrett is also acting in the Buffalo Theatre Ensemble's plays The Mousetrap (as the straight-line Miss Casewell), and The Real Inspector Hound (playing the over dramatic Cynthia Muldoon), which are both currently playing at the college through Nov. 10.

"When I'm directing, I have an actors viewpoint in that I'm willing to hear all sides of a story," Barrett said about being an actress and director at the same time.

"Because that's what you're telling, no matter what kind of a play it is, and the director has to have their own point of view that you're told the story through."

There will be an ironically dated special preview performance of the psychological thriller Heartland at 8 p.m. on Oct. 31 (better known as Halloween), in the Studio Theatre. Tickets cost only $4.

New Classic Singers to perform Leonard Bernstein's 'MASS'

BY VICKI VANDENBOS
A&E EDITOR

The New Classic Singers and guest artists will collaborate in a rare performance of Leonard

- ❖ Time: 4 p.m.
- ❖ Date: Nov. 3
- ❖ Place: Mainstage
- ❖ Tickets: $16

Bernstein's "MASS, A Theatre Piece for Singers, Players and Dancers," to begin their fifteenth season.

This piece was commissioned by Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis when she asked Bernstein to write it for the opening of the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., 25 years ago in 1971.

Bernstein took the Latin Mass text and set it to music. In between the different mass movements, sometimes during them and in combination, he adds English text, his own words and lyrics.

Some of the music is fairly traditional and some of it is blues, rock, chorus and instruments.

"The main character is the Celebrant (played by guest artist Robert Sims), who is like the leader of the service, celebrating the mass," said Lee Kesselman, founder and director of NCS.

"He goes through his own crisis of faith, he doesn't know how he believes in God, and he is surrounded by all these people who have many different attitudes and approaches to religion. He is trying to figure out what he really believes and how he should relate to these people."

In this production, there will be more than 200 performers involved, three choruses and 30 soloists. There will also be dancers and instruments.

The instruments include a wind ensemble plus a rock band and a blues band and five percussionists.

"It's not done very often, partly because it's so big and you need all those people and partly it is a very controversial work," Kesselman said.

"We are celebrating our fifteenth season and I wanted to do something big and splashy."

Kesselman said that this piece is too big for NCS to do alone, so he found a group of people at Northern Illinois University, who were excited about collaborating together.

The other guest artists that will be included in this piece are the NIU Concert Choir, directed by Sandra Snow Murphy; NIU Wind Ensemble, directed by Stephen Squires; NIU Opera Workshop, directed by James Tucker; NIU Dance Department, directed by Randall Newsom; and Glen Ellyn Children's Chorus, directed by Emily Ellsworth.

"This piece will be staged and costumed, and it's a very exciting piece, as much as anything, it's that one would come to this and really expect that feeling of anticipation that comes when you've got an event," Kesselman said.

Bernstein also composed West Side Story and Candide.

Sunday afternoon there will be a pre-concert event with Dr. John Hatmaker, who provides a listener's guide to Leonard Bernstein's "MASS," at 3 p.m. on Nov. 3 in the Arts Center, Room 139.

This pre-concert event is free to ticket holders for the 4 p.m. concert.

- ❖ Tickets: $17/16

The Siegel-Schwall Band and Corky Siegel's Chamber Blues Band will return for another performance of traditional blues blended with classical chamber music.

The two bands have been performing together since 1965. Each band contains very different instruments to create the mixture of music that they are known for. For the concert they will perform together as well as separately.

The Siegel-Schwall Band includes Siegel on vocals, harmonica and piano; Jim Schwall on guitar; Rollo Radford on bass and Sam Lay on drums.

The Chamber Blues Band consists of Guillaume Combet and Rebecca Scott, violins; Richard Hallajian, viola; Jill Kaeding, cello and a member of the Blues Hall of Fame, Frank Donaldson on the tabla, an East Indian hand drum.

By Vicki Vandenbos, A&E Editor

Matt Adamczyk
21, Sophomore
Drummer

Q What made you take up the drums?

A When I was younger I was kind of like a pyromaniac and my parents wondered how they could get me to stop burning stuff, so I told them to buy me a drum set. That is how I started.

Q How long have you been playing the drums?

A About seven years.

Q What are you currently doing in the music field?

A I am involved in the Student Jazz Groups at the college and have been for the past three years.

Matt Adamczyk practices on his drums for the jazz groups.

Q What do you do to enhance your drumming skills?

A I try to listen to as much music as I can, by as many artists as possible. That way I have a broad base to be influenced by.

Q What are your future plans?

A Next spring, I plan on transferring to Elmhurst College and majoring in Music Performance or Recording Engineering. When I get out of college, I would like to work at a recording studio as an on-call session player. While I am doing that, I also want to work gigs in society and do private teaching.

It's a quiet but happy week for you. You'll enjoy spending time alone with either a hobby, a creative project, or a romantic interest. The weekend should find you tending to your health and getting enough rest.

A confidential business meeting is on your agenda early in the week. You'll ultimately work things out to your satisfaction. An insight comes through a special friendship. A weekend party finds you kicking up your heels.

Capricorn (December 22 to January 19)

Brush up on your Shakespeare and make sure you are taking advantage of local cultural opportunities. Friends help each other out. The weekend accents romance and leisure activities.

Aquarius (January 20 to February 18)

Pisces (February 19 to March 20)

You need some time by yourself this week to find an answer to a problem. Behind-the-scenes support is yours for the asking. A lucrative financial deal awaits your approval over the weekend.

Football team loses battle with rival Grand Rapids

BY ASIM IFTKHAR
SPORTS EDITOR

The Chaparral football team dropped to 5-3 following a 13-0 loss to the Grand Rapids Raiders last Saturday.

The Chaparrals must win their final game of the season against the Illinois Valley Apaches tomorrow at 1 p.m. to tie Grand Rapids for the conference title.

The game against nationally ranked Grand Rapids was a highly contested one, the only two touchdowns being scored in the fourth quarter.

"Unfortunately for us, two touchdowns was all Grand Rapids needed to win. Grand Rapids is ranked tenth in the country, and this was a very close contest until the last quarter when they scored," said Head Coach Bob MacDougall.

"I thought our kids played hard and put in a lot of effort. They made some poor judgements and committed some mistakes, but we didn't make it any easier for Grand Rapids to win," MacDougall said.

According to MacDougall, the Chaps had several opportunities to score, but were unable to.

"We kept coming close to scoring, and I felt we had to score on some of those drives, but we came away empty every time. It's real disappointing when you get as close as the 12 yard line and then have to give the ball back to the other team," MacDougall said.

The Raiders scored one touchdown off an interception and the second one came on a drive of 70 yards.

COD's quarterback Brian

McQuillan was sacked six times at the hands of the Raider's defense, who were also effective in limiting the Chaps' offense to only 136 yards total. McQuillan completed six passes out of nineteen attempts for 50 yards. Damien Brown led COD in rushing with a total of 66 yards on 19 carries.

"Our 15 penalties and bad field position hurt us in this game, but I know we will bounce back like we did before," MacDougall said.

Volleyball team captures N4C title

BY ASIM IFTEKHAR
SPORTS EDITOR

COD's volleyball team won the best of both worlds last Saturday, winning both the N4C championship and the N4C volleyball tournament title.

The Chaps won the N4C title with a record of 7-3, and they improved to 27-11 after defeating Lake County on Tuesday.

"We lost twice to Lake County earlier in the season, so this was good payback. It was a really exciting match, probably the best of this season. It went back and forth between two great teams," said Head Coach LuAnn Zimmick.

The team played with other schools of the N4C against the rival Skyway conference at the Skyway - N4C Challenge at Waubesa yesterday.

The Chaps played for the N4C against Skyway in a partnership with the some of the same teams they beat for the N4C title.

The Chaparrals beat Triton College in their first game of N4C play, but dropped their next two matches against Illinois Valley 17-15 and 15-9.

The Chaps recovered from the early setback with no apparent detriment to their morale as they went on a winning streak, beating host Joliet 15-6 and 15-4 to set up the much anticipated match against rival Rock Valley.

COD, ranked second in the country, defeated sixth ranked Rock Valley 15-17, 15-13 and 15-6.

"Even though we lost to IV, the game against Rock Valley was definitely an exciting battle as I expected it would be," Zimmick said.

According to Zimmick, the team bounced back after the loss to IV and built on their momentum to beat Joliet and Illinois Valley.

Five of the Chaparrals were named to three all-conference teams after winning the N4C title.

Katie Ryan was named to the first team, Missi Seelinger and Marnie Srail were named to the second team and Jessica Beck and Carly Krzyzewski were recognized as honorable mentions.

The Chaps last game of the regular season will be against nemesis Kishwaukee, a Division II team the Chaps have struggled against and lost to in their last two encounters.

"We have a score to settle," Zimmick said.

Men's soccer ranked second, to play U of I

By ASIM IFTEKHAR
SPORTS EDITOR

The most recent NJCAA Division I men's soccer coaches poll ranks COD second in the nation.

COD's team lays claim to a record of eleven wins, no losses and three ties overall and are 7-0-1 in the region.

The Chaps were leading 2-0 in the recent game against Waubensee, but an intensifying lightning storm caused a postponement of the game to a later, drier date after only nineteen minutes of play.

"The lightning started striking ground and it got so bad, having two teams play soccer out in the middle of that didn't seem like the best thing," Assistant coach Mario Reda said.

COD handily defeated Harper 4-0 in its last game on Saturday, further strengthening the ranking.

"We dominated in the game against Harper. We played our full compliment, seventeen out of our squad of eighteen," Reda said.

George Gee had a hat trick for the Chaps in the first half, and he scored one more time prior to the end for the only goals of the game.

"George Gee and Loren Crawford came through offensively for us. Loren supplied assists and George scored. They are our best attackers. George always has a good game, but Loren deserves mention because he played exceptionally well for us," said Head Coach Jimmy Kelly.

Chaparral star midfielder Wojtek Kapuscik was named the Region IV Most Valuable Player for excelling at the midfield position. This is the second consecutive year that Kapuscik has attained the MVP award.

"I am happy that Wojtek was named MVP. I think he deserves it, he has proven to be good at whatever position he has played. Last year, he was an All American and the MVP as a forward, but he decided to try something different this year and now he's won at midfielder," Reda said.

Kelly is quick to downplay the importance of the team's ranking. According to him, it is a nice thing to have on the record, but it doesn't mean much.

"I think it's a nice thing to say you're number two, but what really matters is how you play down the road regardless of your ranking. When we last won the championship in '93, we were ranked all the way at the bottom at number fourteen but we still went on to beat the top ranked teams. On the flip side, we were ranked number one twice, but we failed to win the championship those years," Kelly said.

According to Kelly, the Chaps have two more games left on their schedule that will challenge their prowess before the Region IV playoffs.

"We play the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign for the first time tomorrow, in what should be an exciting game. It will be a good test of this team's ability, as we go into the playoffs and hopefully, the Nationals" Kelly said.

A COD player charges forward to take a shot on goal in a recent game.

"We have been looking forward to this game all season. U of I is a dominant, strong team comprised of mostly senior players who are bigger and more seasoned than our player. I am glad that U of I agreed to play us, it will be an exciting culmination of the season in our last home game," Reda said.

The COD men's and women's swimming team has begun its practice season.

The combined team is participating in dual meets at present for practice, with the regular season starting on Jan. 7.

The team has undergone some changes in the past year, with longtime coach Al Zamsky retiring and eight returning swimmers out of a group of 20.

Steve Murray was hired by COD in August as Zamsky's replacement, and he has gone to work preparing the team for the upcoming meets.

Murray has extensive experience in athletics at the community college level as he is the former athletic director of Elgin Community College.

"I looked into the coaching position at DuPage because I was already familiar with the fine coaches, facilities, and opportunities here," Murray said.

According to Murray, the team gets along well together and works fine as a combined men's and women's team.

"I started here in August and I have not had much time to recruit swimmers for the team, but we have a good mix of new and veteran swimmers here, and I think we can make a run for the title," Murray said.

The Chaparral swimming team is part of the Region IV grouping, competing with Triton and Lincoln colleges at the meets which include competition in the four major strokes, sprinting, distance and relay competition.

Murray mentions Dave Kinsella and Katherine Hill as just two of the promising players on the team.

"I encourage people with varying skill levels at swimming to join, we have room for more on the team," Murray said.
