Letter from the Editor

Adam Chalifoux

My first semester as editor-in-chief of the College of DuPage's Prairie Light Review has been a journey through art and literature that will stay in my memory for the rest of my life. It has been my pleasure to read through some brilliant literature this past semester as well as view some incredibly original art and photography. I would like to thank the artists for submitting and would like to encourage them to submit to future issues.

This magazine would not have turned out at the level of excellence it has without the diligent efforts of my fellow editors and advisor. Together, we not only analyzed literature, but grew as human beings through literary analysis and learned about each other and ourselves along the way.

This is where you come in as the reader. As you travel through these pages, I would like to encourage you to open your heart and mind. The poems in this magazine are more than words on a page but a beautiful piece of each artist's soul displayed in six by nine format. Enjoy...
