

Spring 5-1-2015

Deer Head

Jennifer Prucha
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr>

Recommended Citation

Prucha, Jennifer (2015) "Deer Head," The Prairie Light Review: Vol. 37: No. 2, Article 35.
Available at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol37/iss2/35>

This Artwork is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@COD. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@COD. For more information, please contact koteles@cod.edu.

up to the kaleidoscope sky, and began praying. Still mourning the sudden death of my younger sister, my grief spilled out like torrential rain—in sheets, drenching and overwhelming. When my emotions calmed, the sun had slipped below the horizon and it was time to leave.

Drying my tears, I walked to the dirt road. I followed it until I arrived at the second, rather than the first, fork in the road. Frank had not mentioned this one, thinking that I would not leave the main dirt road and make a hard right, which of course I did. As darkness descended, fear gripped me. Without a flashlight, I struggled to see the light color of the dirt road. Heart racing and out of breath, I

deer head
ink wash drawing
Jennifer Prucha