

Fall 12-2015

Talya Triptych

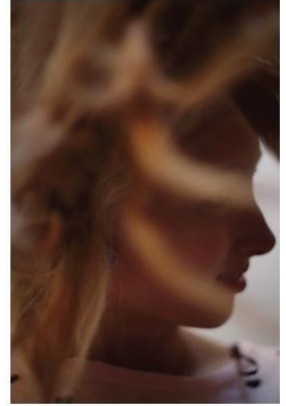

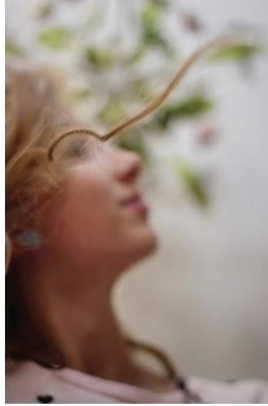

Natalie Krause
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr>

Recommended Citation

Krause, Natalie (2015) "Talya Triptych," The Prairie Light Review: Vol. 38: No. 1, Article 30.
Available at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol38/iss1/30>

This Artwork is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@COD. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@COD. For more information, please contact koteles@cod.edu.

TALYA TRIPTYCH
Photography

ALEXANDRA KURZA

Truthful Eyes

There is a fire in everyone's eyes,
That burns the brightest bright.
But sometimes that flame dies,
When someone extinguishes the light.

Eyes tell more truth than lies,
They reveal the true heart.
You can see someone's laughs and cries.
Just look, it's a start.

The eyes dart away,
When someone is in pain.
They have no words to say.

The eyes glisten,
When someone is about to cry.
Will you give them a listen?

The lines crinkle,
When someone wears a smile.
Their eyes also twinkle.

Can you read eyes?
Can you see the darkness,
That someone is trying to hide?

Many put on a show,
To hide their suffering.
That way no one will know,
How badly they're crying.

Are you watching?
Do you see?
Someone is withering.

Eyes are so lovely,
But the pain they hide
Is horrifically ugly.