Poetry (Is the Artwork of Human Innovation)

J.A. Greene

Poetry is the artwork of human innovation.
It allows us to express freely without speaking a word.
It is the magic of our language.

If only one could see the beauty of a poem,
Gracefully flowing with hand-picked words,
Seeking a meaning deeper than what is visible.
Going through the veins like oxygen; breathing us life.

Outward appearance draws attention,
Rhyme and Rhythm provide entertainment,
Diction, the meat of the poem, beats like the heart.
Sweet as honeyed words, form strength
As the poem formulates into its reason
Whether it be good or bad,
Happy or sad,
There is a wonder of poetry,
Adding color to a black and white world.
