

Spring 5-1-1995

The Playground

Rebecca Lambrecht
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: <https://dc.cod.edu/plr>

Recommended Citation

Lambrecht, Rebecca (1995) "The Playground," The Prairie Light Review: Vol. 14 : No. 2 , Article 16.
Available at: <https://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol14/iss2/16>

This Selection is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@COD. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@COD. For more information, please contact orenick@cod.edu.

The Playground

I sit motionless on a small swing
searching.

A faint breeze brushes
bare skin
reminding of how cold it's been.

The squawk of a nearby crow creeps into my mind
next to you.

Faint flashes --
the merry-go-round
life pushing us down
the slide,
slipping sadly away.

Strawberries sweet blood
dripping from our mouths.

At the doors we wait -- knobby knees
bruised bone laughter.

Entering, we assume adulthood.

Night comes and
swiftly takes you away
to a playground
where it's always day,
leaving me alone
to play.

By: Rebecca Lambrecht

"The best place to find helping hands is at the end of your own arms."

- Confucius

page 12