This House Weeps

Jason O’Donnell

College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: https://dc.cod.edu/plr

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol13/iss2/31

This Selection is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@COD. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@COD. For more information, please contact orenick@cod.edu.
Final Resting Place

Bruce W. Maki

Old yarrow cemetery blocks recline on the hillside on the mississippi palisade.

A century,
and the names and dates
have dripped off onto the ground leaving blind, white monolith of marble.

The repaired prop over sagging coffins.

The new touch raggedly raw boned earth.

And the nuclear sun
gives their breath
to green green grass.

This House Weeps

Jason O'Donnell

Broken leg of a slow chair
Open seam, faded wardrobe Egg shells and wounded kitchen...

This house weeps.

Sprain of window sill
Paint cracked and lifted like cancer Musty hallways and termite cabaret...

This house weeps.

Empty cupboards above lonely sink
All dishes broken, none to clean Someone was born
Someone fell in love Someone died under a starlit sky...

This house weeps...