A Capital Idea

Lee Kesselman
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: https://dc.cod.edu/plr

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol1/iss3/17

This Selection is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@COD. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@COD. For more information, please contact orenick@cod.edu.
Fantasy

Come with me sweet stranger
to a far and distant land,
We shall ride the unicorns
across the silver sand.

On winged' stallions
we shall fly
above a purple mist
and land within a sheltered grove
that only sunlight kissed.
The dawn will see us lying there
upon our clover bed;
The sky and gentle morning sky
will find us Eros-fed.

Our exchanged world of dreams
will know not guilt nor pain,
we shall walk barefoot through these hills,
and run naked through the rain.

Reggie Murphy

A Capital Idea

Idaho,
where Execution
is a natural right,
Can't afford a permanent structure,
so look for a cattle shed
or a mobile home
to do them in

Lee Kesselman

Self-Awareness

Lately,
there's been an empty chair next
to me.
And for some reason
I smile at it
as if there was someone
there.
To tell you the truth
there has been.
A real good friend of mine.

Joan Leindecker

Introspection

I am searching
the corridors of my mind;
searching for answers
that may be difficult to find.
The corridors darken,
for fear of what an open door
might reveal.
Even more obscured, then,
is what a closed door
does conceal.../
Darkness results from fear.

Darkness results from fear.
Locks and hinges
begin rusting, too.
Illumination occurs with courage,
as open doors likewise do.

I am searching for answers
that may be difficult to find;
searching behind doors
throughout corridors,
obscured by my own mind.

Tracy Notter

Stormin

A sudden summer storm,
And I lay safe and warm,
My thoughts caressing you —
Wherever you may be.

For so long,
I've sung my love song
Of me and you; of something borrowed,
Something blue.

I smile now,
Feeling the warmth of your love somehow.
A summer storm, and I —
So very, very warm.

Jerome A. Atkinson

Laura's Eyes

When after a soft kiss or embrace,
I look up and see your face.
I'm taken in by what I see,
those eyes that look back at me.

Not only are they too good to be true,
but they are the most amazing blue.

How I long to hold you close,
so I can see what I miss most.
The color stolen from the sky,
and placed so gently in each eye.

Christopher R. Dorris

A Dream

How do you bury a dream?

Banish it from heart and mind
and say,
"Begone."

Were it a sudden fancy or a whim, it's demise would be sure and swift.

But too long my heart has nurtured it.

My dream
like a kite
has flown heavenward;
for prayers keep earnest
dreams alive.

"Just cut the string"
is your advice?

I'll do just that —
but it's my heart-strings
that hold it tight.

Mae R. Mortensen