"To Cupid With Love"

Reggie Murphy
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: https://dc.cod.edu/plr

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol2/iss2/26

This Selection is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@COD. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@COD. For more information, please contact orenick@cod.edu.
mellowness is bitterness.
— Edward Happel

LISTEN

when will you hear me?
when will you listen?
all my life I've been looking for you.
everywhere always I've wanted only you.
i'd just like to know you,
that's all I ask.
why don't you let it be?

mystery enshrouds you.
and I must ask:
is your mystical secrecy really a sign of hidden treasure?
or is it more like
a suppression of the truth?

no matter how hard I try,
to what degree or length,
you still remain unseen.
I ponder giving up,
but you're too important,
you are too special:
we are meant to be awake.

please.
— Sheilla James

“TO CUPID WITH LOVE”

Your arrows dipped in saccharine slime, as you await some love-drenched rhyme to wash away my weak defenses, drown me in my foolish senses...
Then you stick your tainted dart deep in the muscle of my heart, Winged, bare-bottomed brat —
I never asked for that.

— Reggie Murphy

wild cherry soda

spring fresh days
in joy with cool high friends travelling the universe with pockets full of gold
— Corrine Hayes