

Spring 5-1-2017

Point

Dorothy Bandusky
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr>

Recommended Citation

Bandusky, Dorothy (2017) "Point," The Prairie Light Review: Vol. 39 : No. 2 , Article 27.
Available at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol39/iss2/27>

This Selection is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@COD. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@COD. For more information, please contact koteles@cod.edu.

Point

Now you must fail, although you pass,
(And never fall into a lull)
When no point can be found in class.

You may as well be smoking grass
Or picking out which smarts to cull;
And you must fail, but first you'll pass

Out dead away from noxious gas
That shrinks your brain and splits your skull
When no point can be found in class.

What's that you say? "I'm very crass
To say things like, 'Prof. Void is null'
And 'you must fail, although you pass?'"

Well, salary is what the lass
Does like, I think, and not to mull
On points that could be found in class.

So read your books, (or be an ass),
And teach yourself, (lest you be dull),
For all must fail, although they pass,
When no point can be found in class.

Dorothy Bandusky

