A Game of Hackysack

Brooke Dennis
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: http://dc.cod.edu/plr

Recommended Citation
Available at: http://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol19/iss1/36
A Game of Hackysack

Long wire legs
bending and winding
in all directions.
Feet bent and curled
in sneakers and sandals.
Straining muscles;
stretching tendons.
Ankles circling
to crib the ball.
Kaleidoscope of colors.
Wrinkled khakis;
faded denim.
Flailing arms avoiding
the bouncing bail
off concave chests.
Rolling off the heel
into the air.
Leaping and jumping,
lying from one player
to another.
Wild chaos;
ethereal beauty.
Bursting energy;
breath-taking stillness.
A one man show —
inside and outside
the ball glides
around calves and thighs
by an enigmatic
magnetic force.
Slipping off a pointed foot
into the air
up...up...up...
escaping through the air.
Thud!
Pavement.
Alone and still.

Muscles in a Skin

Muscles in a skin
of marble: immortality
shy the joys of blood.

— Robert N. Georgalas

— Brooke Dennis